ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

It is my privilege to express my sincere and deep gratitude to Dr. (Mrs) Shanthi Sivaraman, Reader, Department of English and Other European Languages, for encouraging me to take up this study of Theodore Dreiser. I am thankful to her for the constructive suggestions, scholarly discussions and patient guidance. Her valuable guidance and timely help were a source of inspiration to me and I cannot express my thanks adequately.

I am indebted to Dr. R.S. Pathak, Professor and Head, Department of English and Other European Languages, Dr. H.S. Gour University, Sagar, for his active interest in my work and generous help.

I am also grateful to Dr. S. Mallikarjunan, former Professor and Head, Department of English and Other European Languages, for sparing me his valuable time to discuss certain aspects of Dreiser's work and for some very perceptive insights. I am also thankful to Dr. S. Sivaraman, Professor and Head, Department of Physics, Dr. H.S. Gour University, Sagar, for his kindness and help.

My thanks are also due to the Director and Librarian, The American Studies Research Centre, Hyderabad, for extending all possible help during my visit to their institution and for sending me valuable material by post from time to time. I am also thankful to the Librarian, National Library, Calcutta, and Jawaharlal Nehru Library, Dr. H.S. Gour University, Sagar, for their co-operation and ready help.

My thanks are also due to the numerous critics and scholars of Dreiser, whose opinions and comments have been invaluable to an understanding of Dreiser. I have formally acknowledged while quoting them, but it is not always possible to trace the exact nature, extent or identity of borrowings. If there should be any inadvertent omissions, I apologize solemnly.

I would like to record my deep sense of gratitude to Engineer, Jyotiprakash Mohanty for his brotherly help and encouragement.

My acknowledgement would be incomplete without mention of my parents, brothers-in-law, my uncle Dr. R.C. Behera and my younger brothers and sisters. I am also thankful to my friends, Mr. R.N. Sasmal, Mr. P.M. Pattanaik, and others for their unstinted help, encouragement and understanding.

Last but not least, I express my thanks to Mr. G.P. Rai, for his dexterous typing of the thesis.

My most profound debts, however, must remain unacknowledged. They are for me a subject fit for personal knowledge and silence.

Manas Ranjan Samal
To
My GrandParents