These eyes had seen a dream years back. Now this dream is fulfilled in the shape of this thesis. But how did the ethereal become solid? Innumerable are the springs of inspiration which gave colours to my thoughts. Gratitude is a small word in return. But, this is the only means I have to express my feelings.

According to our Indian tradition, we begin with the eldest when it comes to paying regards. I also start from my roots — my paternal and maternal grandmothers. Their noble life instilled high ideals in me right from my childhood. Then come my parents who not only brought me into this world but also took pains to shape my intellect. They provided a conducive atmosphere that enabled me to dream right from my childhood. I can never forget the trouble taken by my father to provide the best books to me during my research-period and, my mother's accompanying me to the publishers in spite of her ill-health. I am grateful to God for giving me such loving and caring parents.

Another blessing of God is my supervisor, Dr. C. Sengupta. His paternal care, intelligence, encouragement, constant and careful inspection of my work goaded me forward on my path. His precious advice, "Accept it as a challenge," enabled me to sail smoothly amongst the threatening storms on the sea of life.

Coupled with my Supervisor's strength is another dear name - that is, his wife Dr. S. Sengupta, Senior Lecturer, Department of English, Dr. Harisingh Gour University, Sagar. Her keen interest in my work, her valuable advice, the profitable discussions with her, the maternal concern and sympathy shown by her in my days of desperate struggle amongst hardships gave me the courage to persist in my work.

I am deeply indebted to Dr. R.S. Pathak, Professor and Head, Department of English, Dr. Harisingh Gour University, Sagar. Without his generosity, encouragement, help and blessings, this work would not have seen the light of day. I consider myself fortunate that he always spared time to discuss my topic and offer guidance, in spite of being so busy.

I would also like to thank the remaining staff of Department of English, Dr. H.S. Gour University, Sagar, for their good response towards my work.
No word of thanks would be complete if I do not mention my husband. His continuous support, constant inspiring presence, untiring efforts in managing several works, specially the discussions with him and the significant creative ideas and suggestions on my topic by him provided the inner strength to complete this work. His uncomplaining help and encouragement during my cloudy days sustained me.

I owe a great deal to my school and university teachers whose dedicated teaching shaped my personality. Specially, I feel indebted to Dr. A.S. Narolia, Dr. S.B. Shrivastava, Prof. V.S. Choudhary and Prof. Alam.

Dr. R.S. Sharma, B.H.U., Banaras, and Dr. Wasim, Jamia Milia Islamia, New Delhi, are unforgettable influences. Prof. Sharma's illuminating talks on 'archetypes' cleared the cobwebs in my mind.

I would also like to thank my brother whose humorous spirit comforted me.

Though the list is not exhaustive, yet, I would like to thank my personal friends; Prof. S.S. Saxena, Principal, Govt. Nehru College, Deori, Dr. D.S. Saxena, Principal, Govt. Girls' Degree College, Chhatarpur; my colleagues at Govt. Nehru College, Deori; well-wishers and even the younger generation of my students who have constantly desired success for me.

Coming to institutions, I would like to record my thanks to the librarian and staff of J.L.N. Library, Dr. H.S. Gour University, Sagar; to Anseri uncle, Librarian and staff of Dr. Zakir Hussain Library, Jamia Milia Islamia University, New Delhi, American Studies Research Centre, Hyderabad and CIFEL, Hyderabad.

Finally, a word of thanks to Mr. Shoukat Ali for typing this thesis so speedily.
