Acknowledgement

The thesis report marks the end of a long, wonderful and eventful journey for which there are many people whom I would like to acknowledge for their support along the way.

To my extreme delight, I would like to evince my whole-hearted gratitude, appreciation and indebtedness to my mentor Dr. Ujjval Trivedi for giving me an opportunity to be involved in research. I sincerely thank him for his excellent guidance, teaching, encouragement, benign attention, and for helping me out in most stressful times, both scientific and personal, which helped me to think positively and remain optimistic. His scientific temperament, innovative approach, dedication towards his profession and down to earth nature has inspired me the most. I preserve an everlasting gratitude for him.

With great gratitude and respect I am also grateful and indebted to Prof. K. C. Patel for his invaluable advice and his untiring patience. I express heartfelt gratitude for his guidance, helpful suggestion, encouragement, attention and support throughout the duration of research.

At this juncture I would also like to thank Late Shri Pinakin R. Patel, my teacher, friend, philosopher and guide who taught me the basics of microbiology at my bachelors.

A special word of thanks is due to Prof. Datta Madamwar for providing necessary laboratory facilities required for the successful completion of this work. At this juncture I would like to thank Dr. Hitesh Patel, Mr. Nitin Solanki for all their help with analytical equipments. I also thank Dr. Natraj for all his advice and help during my research.
I would like to take this opportunity to thank the Head of the Department and all faculty members of BRD School of Biosciences for their affection and support.

I express my sincere thanks to Charotar Education Society, for granting me permission in pursuing my research and making my way smoother. I also thank Dr. D. S. Raj (Principal, M. B. Patel Science College) and Dr. Rakesh Panchal (Head, Department of Microbiology), for his kind support during my research.

I am thankful to University Grants Commission, India for awarding teachers fellowship and Department of Higher Education, Government of Gujarat for granting the permission for the same.

I am grateful to Prof. S. B. Chincholkar (North Maharashtra University, Jalgaon) for the support rendered in siderophore purification. It was great and prestigious experience. I also thank Mr. Meghraj Kadam and Mr. Sandip Patil who rendered great help during my stay at North Maharashtra University and made my stay comfortable.

A special word of thanks is due to Dr. Arabinda Ray for his kind help in understanding the chemistry of siderophores.

A special thanks to Dr. Manoj Soni and Pruthaben for their moral support, help and guidance whenever required.

I would also like to acknowledge the technical support I received from Sophisticated Instrumentation Centre for Applied Research and Testing (SICART), Charutar Vidyamandal.

I thank the administrative staff of Sardar Patel University and USIC for their support in administrative and technical aspects.
Just thankfulness is not enough for my former and present labmates, Dr. Kishor Chauhan, Dr. Hilor Pathak, Dr. Rachana Bhatt, Dr. Kavita, Dr. Sushma Arli, Dr. Hema Anto, Dr. Nehal Thakor, Dr. Hardik Bhaty, Dr. Kiran Rajput, Dr. Shraddha Trivedi, Vimal, Deval, Hiral, Gopal, Anjali, Honey and Sanket for their kind cooperation during my research tenure. I would also like to thank other research fellows Sujit, Vinay, Kunal Jain, Neeraj Singh, Ravi Patel, Deesha Patel and Mafat Kher for their support whenever required.

During the course of my research I was in touch with young and enthusiastic dissertation students, Hilor Pathak, Sangeeta Singh, Chirag Panchal, Rajesh Solanki, Bhumika Panchal, Lalita Sharma, Kusum Sethi, Shweta Patel and Niketa Patel, who made me realize that teaching is the best way of learning. I am also fortunate to have non-stop moral back up from my dearly students of microbiology at M. B. Patel Science College, Anand.

Above all I would like to acknowledge my family to ensure me an excellent education. I owe much of my academic and personal success to my family who provided me with the motivation and courage to pursue a Ph.D degree. I would like to thank my dearest wife, Komal and my kids (Nisarg and Aarushi) for their sacrifices, endless unconditional love and encouragement throughout this entire journey. They form the backbone and are the origin of my happiness. The love and support of my family without any complaint or regret has enabled me to complete this Ph.D project.

Beyond all this I sincerely thank the almighty for giving me strength to face all the situations and blessing me through thick and thin and making me what I am today.

(UMANG BHARUCHA)