The process of writing this thesis, like most meaningful endeavours, was filled with wonderful experiences, memories, and people. I would like to take this opportunity to thank every single soul that has been part of this long tiring journey and lent their helping hand whenever I felt I could not go any further.

First of all, I take the privilege to express my deep sense of gratitude to my adroit supervisor Dr. Abhay Singh Yadav, Professor, Department of Zoology, Kurukshetra University, Kurukshetra for his meticulous guidance. He made me feel comfortable right from the start, influencing my decision of continuing my education at Kurukshetra University. He shaped my unrefined ideas into something that would be suitable for this offering and provided meaningful feedback that improved the direction and quality of this thesis. His listening ear and friendly approach warmed my soul on numerous occasions.

I am also indebted to my veteran co-supervisor Dr. R. K. Karwasra, Sr. Professor and Head, Departments of Surgery & Surgical Oncology, Pt. B. D. Sharma, P.G.I.M.S., Rohtak for giving a whole new dimension to my research. His exemplary professionalism and exactness to detail were boon to my novice research endeavours. He is as kind as he is committed. His character and quiet strength were evident throughout this undertaking and I greatly appreciate that.

I am grateful to Dr. Girish Chopra, Professor and Chairman, Department of Zoology, Kurukshetra University, Kurukshetra for providing the necessary laboratory facility and constant encouragement. I am also thankful to other faculty members of the Department for their regular support and timely help.

I am also very thankful to Dr. S. S. Sangwan, Vice Chancellor, University of Health Sciences, Rohtak for allowing me to collect samples from cancer patients there and all the faculty members and residents of Department of Surgical Oncology for their ready co-operation during sample collection.

I would like to extend my special thanks to my seniors Dr. M. K. Sharma, Dr. Rahul Jain, Dr. Paramjit Kaur and Late Mrs. Gulshan Sherawat who rendered a great deal of multidirectional help. My cordial thanks are also due to other research scholars of the department for helping me in looking at the lighter side of the difficult situations.

I am also grateful to my friends Dr. Aditi Sangwan and Dr. Rajesh Yadav from Pt. B.D.S. P.G.I.M.S., Rohtak, who not only made me comfortable there but also helped me in every possible manner during sample collection.

I am thankful to the non-teaching staff of the Department of Zoology, Kurukshetra University, Kurukshetra and Department of Surgical Oncology, Pt. B.D.S.
P.G.I.M.S., Rohtak, for their day to day help in my research work. I express my heartfelt appreciation to all of them.

I am indebted to all individuals who volunteered to give blood and buccal samples and other data for the present study and to all those who helped in blood sample collection. They are the unseen faces in this work. Obviously, without their ready co-operation this study could not have been possible.

The financial assistance from CSIR, New Delhi in the form of JRF and SRF (File No.- 09/105(0189)/2010-EMR-I,) for pursuing this piece of research, is gratefully acknowledged.

I extend my heartfelt thanks to Dr. Stefano Bonassi, Unit of Molecular Epidemiology, National Cancer Research Institute, Genova, Italy, for recognizing the present work and inviting us to participate in the HUMN\textsubscript{XL} Project, an international collaborative project on the micronucleus frequency in human exfoliated buccal cells.

I am also grateful to the Steering Committee of the ComNet project for inviting us to join the international collaborative project on Comet Assay in human biomonitoring.

Sincere thanks are due to Dr. Rajbir Singh Yadav, Chairman, Department of Political Science, Kurukshetra University, Kurukshetra, Dr. Vikram Yadav, Laproscopic & Cancer Surgeon, Aarvy Hospital, Gurgaon and Dr. Praveen Garg, Civil Surgeon, Gurgaon, for extending their helping hand in the hour of need.

I value the selfless co-operation and enthusiastic encouragement from my friends which enabled me to bring this arduous task to completion.

Finally, those who have meant the most to me in this effort have been my family. I thank my parents, Mr. Nawab Singh Yadav and Mrs. Saroj Yadav, for their unflinching support even when it was difficult. They have provided me with a safe harbour where I can vent my frustrations including some of the tough times I have encountered these four years. At times, their confidence exceeded my own. I have always been at peace with them by my side.

I wish to thank my siblings, Ms. Monika Yadav, Ms. Yashika Yadav, and Mr. Bharat Yadav for always being there when I needed them the most. Their command of English language and proof-reading skills were called upon often. Of all the personal sacrifices I have had to make, being away from my family was one of the hardest.

I hope that throughout these four years, I have demonstrated the value of following a dream.

\textbf{Date:} \\
(Shweta Yadav)