Acknowledgements

I acknowledge my most sincere gratitude to my guide Dr. S. Josh, whose enlightened and scholarly support has guided me through the process of research. But for his timely directions and cautions, this thesis would not have been. His eminent suggestions on books, libraries and resource persons have brought the work finally home. More than by words, he guided me by his precept, and has always proved a source of inspiration. Beyond the boundaries of this research project he also shows me the way ahead in academic progress and career enrichment. He, more than anyone else, has inspired me by the profundity of his thoughts and his positive zeal. All this, makes me grateful even to the circumstances that led me to him. I thankfully acknowledge him first and foremost as I submit the work.

The books from the English and Foreign Languages University library have been of abundant help. The university and its rich library gave me much material to read and to think. I gratefully remember Prof. Joni C. Joseph whose scholarly guidance helped me to conduct the survey which forms an important aspect of this research project. I am thankful to my colleagues Dr. Sunitha Sreenivas, Sri.K. Arun Lal and Sri. Nisanth T V, who did the proof reading and guided me with their learned suggestions. I thank the Higher Secondary students who participated in the survey conducted in connection with this research. Their honest answers to the questions serve as the basis for the findings of this research.
I am indebted to my friends Sri. K. Rajendran, Sri. K.Udayakumar, Sri.Shinoj K. Mathew, Adv. Johny Sebastian, Smt. Smitha T T, Smt. Baby Sunitha and my brother Sri. Joy V V, for their encouragement and help. They all reminded me at separate junctures that there is work for me to do in earnest and their reminders were always motivating.

In my career as an English teacher I came to realize that the teaching of English lessons does not help the students to acquire English sufficiently. Most of what is done in the name of English teaching and learning is but a waste of time, as far as a large section of the students is concerned. This experience of my students and my own bitter experiences as an ordinary student in school encouraged me to take up this study about the effectiveness of constructivist English language teaching/learning at the higher secondary level in Kerala. I am deeply grateful to all these different persons and experiences which have contributed to the success of this work.
