ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

It would be practically impossible to adequately acknowledge and credit every individual who assisted me in the doctoral work. I would like, therefore, to single out the following persons because of their major contributions.

First of all, there are no words to express my gratitude and admiration for Dr. B.R. Dwaraki, Prof. and Head, in Rural Sociology who not only for the study but also served as an adviser and provided valuable guidance and constant encouragement throughout my career at this institute. But for his timely advice at crucial stages, completion of my doctoral work would have been impossible. I am indebted to the authorities of this institute who permitted me to carry out my research work on a part-time basis.

I am heavily indebted to Dr. S. Warayanasamy, the Dept, of G.T. & P.S., who has been a constant source of inspiration and support and for having gone through this script from the formative stages till the completion of this study.

I would like to place my sincere thanks before Dr. M. Harayasamy for encouraging and providing me an opportunity for selecting the theme for research.
I would like to acknowledge the lab support and co-operation extended by the Dept, of Social Welfare in field work granting permission for the same.

I owe a great deal to Dr. M. Annadumi, Program Secretary (Documentation), Institute of Human Rights Education, People’s Watch - Tamil Nadu for having shared his thoughts extending assistance on research from time to time.

I express my thanks to Dr. S. Manivel, Reader, Dept, of Extn. GRI and Dr. K Manikandan and ¥L Ramesh - Training Experts, DAN IDA, who have shown interest, offered encouragement and made constructive comments as this study progressed.

I wish to place on record my special thanks to beloved staff of WB-ICDS-III who willingly volunteered to furnish information and helped me to complete the field work.

I thank the library staff of the NIPCCD Bangalore and the Gandhigram Rural Institute for their readiness in providing me materials for the research.

My sincere appreciation also goes to Mr. Senthil Kumar and Mr. Vivekanandan for their help in typing and word processing.
Words cannot express the sacrifice and assistance made by my loving wife Bhuwaneswari and my daughter Yashwanthika from inception till the completion of the thesis. Had it not been for them, this research work would never have been completed.

Finally, I would like to acknowledge and offer a special note of thanks to all those contributed to the study.
