Working as a Teacher Educator and an Assistant Professor in M.A. [ELT] at H. M. Patel Institute of English Training and Research, Vallabh Vidyanagar, has given me ample of opportunities to grow myself as ELT professional. It is through the Institute that I discovered and developed my abilities as a language enthusiast, classroom practitioner, teacher-trainer and of course as a researcher. The present research is an outcome of one of the instances of a host of learning experiences at HMPIETR and people associated with it. I acknowledge them all for their rich contributions.

I owe my sincere thanks to my guide, Dr. Rajendrasinh Jadeja, for his professional academic guidance and being a mentor. It is his erudition and scholarly advice which made it possible for me to accomplish this project. Without his insightful suggestions and comments this work wouldn’t have come out in this form.

I am indeed thankful to Dr. Piyush Joshi sir, for his constant motivation and concern for my research endeavour and readings. I am indeed fortunate to have his kind support since the day I joined the institute.

My sincere thanks are due to Dr. Atanu Bhattacharya (my former colleague), who introduced me to various aspects of ELT research and influenced the way I practice. I would always remain thankful for his friendly training to become an effective ELT practitioner.

I extend my heartfelt thanks to Dr. Sulabha Natraj for her constant encouragement and being the source of inspiration.

I am equally thankful to Dr. Gaurang Rami (Associate professor, Dept. of Economics, VNSGU) and Dr. Jayesh Dhodiya (Asst. Professor, SVNIT) for their help with SPSS analysis and of course for their friendship.

Besides, I must thank Sunil for his help in all possible ways, as good as a true friend could ever do. Sunil, Viraj, Shalini aunty and Shalin have always been none the less than a family in terms of support and love. I am equally thankful to them.

I am indeed fortunate to have a friend like Surendra for his kind help from time to time by all means. I also acknowledge Juhika for her good wishes.

I must pay my humble gratitude to the teachers, friends and colleagues Dr. O.P.Juneja, Dr. G. Vyawahare, Mayur, and Anil at H. M.Patel Institute of English Training & Research who helped me at one point or another in my research. I am also thankful to Ms.Parinda Dalwadi, Librarian, HMPIETR for her generous co-operation in getting required books and reference reading literature.

Moreover, I am greatly indebted to all my respondents (teachers, learners and parents) and other people who helped me carrying out the rigorous task in collecting the empirical data without which this study wouldn’t have been in shape.

I can’t end this without mentioning my parents, brother (Alpesh), and sister in law (Hetal), for their unconditional love and moral support all along my career. I equally acknowledge the love and support bestowed upon me by my in-laws.

And finally, my heartfelt thanks to Sarika, my wife, to ease up my domestic responsibilities and to push me forward when I lagged behind on my schedule. Dishaan, my son, deserves special thanks at this juncture for adjusting his game-hours on laptop. He has been the source of immense joy all the time.
