ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

I consider it my pleasant duty to express my heartfelt gratitude to Dr. R.K. Bharti, Reader in the Department of Commerce in this University, supervisor of this work, for having being extremely kind and generous and helping me to keep abreast of the latest information in the field of my special study from the time of the conception of the problem for the research. I am particularly indebted to him for the pains he took in going through every line I wrote and also for his valuable suggestions and improvements. I can never adequately express my feeling of gratitude towards him in words. Without his able and expert guidance, the present work would not have seen completion.

I take this opportunity to express my sincere gratitude to my teacher, Dr. R.P. Roy, Professor and Head, Department of Commerce and Professor P.K. Seth, Dean, Faculty of Commerce of Doctor Harisingh Gour Vishwavidyalaya, Sagar for their support and encouragement in various ways at different stages of my work and also for approving the problem for research.

My thanks are also due to the officials of the Vishwavidyalaya for their generous co-operation throughout the course of this research work.
It is a privilege and a duty to place on record the facilities and services of the libraries which I have consulted, namely the Jawaharlal Nehru Library, Bagar, the National Institute of Rural Development, the Administrative Staff College of India, the Small Industry Extension and Training Institute, the Bureau of Economics and Statistics, the Technical Library of the State Planning Department, the Co-operative Training College, and the State Co-operative Union located at Hyderabad.

It is my pleasant duty to acknowledge gratefully the help given by the State Government Departments and other organisations from whom I have collected personally most of the information and data. I am thankful to them for sparing their valuable time to help me in several ways, responding to my request and supplying the necessary information asked for. I wish in particular to appreciate the Directorate of Handlooms and Textiles, the Directorate of Industries, the Directorate of Sugar and Cane Commissionerate, the Registrar of Co-operative Societies, the Planning Department, the Bureau of Economics and Statistics, the Khadi and Village Industries Commission, State Branch, the State Khadi and Village Industries Board and the Commissionerate of Industries.

I express my gratitude to Dr. J. Mallikarjuna, Professor of English, for looking through my manuscript.

I would be failing in my duty, if I do not record my gratitude here, at a personal level, to my paternal uncles who have supported me in various ways and brought me to the present academic position.

I am also thankful to the management of Madhuvanana Degree College, Shakkarnagar, where I have been working, for permitting me to do the research work and granting me the required leave facilities.

(C.S. Rayudu)