Acknowledgement

Thanks God, the merciful and the passionate, for providing me the opportunity to step in the excellent world of science, to be able to step strong and smooth in this way. I take this opportunity with much pleasure to thank all the people who have supported and supervised me through the course of my journey towards producing this thesis.

First and foremost I wish to thank my advisor, Prof. S. P. Govindwar, for his guidance, help and motivation. Apart from the subject of my research, I learnt a lot from him, which I am sure, will be useful in different stages of my life. He has been supportive, for his warm encouragement and thoughtful guidance. My sincere gratitude goes to Dr. Satish Kalme (Jiju) and Dr. (Mrs.) Sheetal Kalme (Sis) for their immense help, guidance and support during my Ph.D. work. I greatfully acknowledge for the advice, supervision, and crucial contribution of all these people, which made them a backbone of this research and so to this thesis. The truly scientist intuition of these people has made them a constant oasis of ideas and passions in science, which exceptionally inspire and enrich my growth as a student, a researcher and a person want to be. I am indebted to them more than they know.

My sincere thanks to all the teachers form department of Biochemistry, Microbiology and Biotechnology: Dr. (Mrs.) A. U. Arvindekar, Dr. (Mrs.) J. P. Jadhav, Dr. (Mrs.) P. B. Dandge, Dr. K. D. Sonawane, Dr. P. M. Gurao, Dr. J. S. Ghosh and Dr. V. A. Bapat for their valuable suggestions.

I also recognize the support and help from Mr. R. J. Rane and all non-teaching staff from Department of Biochemistry, Microbiology and Biotechnology for their help and co-operation.
I would also like to thank all my former colleagues and my lab buddies for their valuable help during the entire course of study.

I wish to express my sincere thanks from the bottom of my heart to my best friends Priya, Anu and Vivek for their continuous inspiration and support.

This thesis would not have been possible without the confidence, endurance and support of my entire extended Family that has been, always, my pillar, my joy and my guidelight.

Finally, I would like to thank everybody who was important to the successful realization of thesis, as well as expressing my apology that I could not mention personally one by one.

~ MITAL