ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I would like to express my sincere gratitude and deep appreciation to my guide Dr. Sheetal Khanka at University of Petroleum and Energy Studies, for her single-minded focus to guide and mentor me in this research and preparation of the thesis. She has made personal sacrifices to invest disproportionate time to help me complete my research. I would also thank Dr. Nitin Singh, Director-KPMG, for his continued guidance to me during this research. Prof. Devendra Punia at UPES has been of immense help to structure my research on the Grounded Theory Method.

There are many who have been constant source of inspiration to me during the research work viz. Shri Pushp K. Joshi, Director-HR, HPCL and Prof. Vijay Kumar at Tata Institute of Social Sciences, amongst others. I would also like to mention the sacrifices and understanding displayed by my wife Mrs. Susmita Sen, during my research. I feel indebted to Mrs. Sonali B. Pednekar who has often subjected to long hours of typing the several drafts on this thesis. She has contributed selflessly. The group of Internal Coaches who work at HPCL have contributed significantly by way of listening patiently to the Emergent Theory and expressing their views with an eye to improve the quality of the research and thesis.
