ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

In the journey of a research work a researcher generally encounters a lot of problems that fill his heart sometime with agonies and sometime with ecstasies although the end of research brings immense joy and happiness. In the journey of this doctoral work, I have been co-operated and assisted by many people who deserve to be acknowledged but in this single page of acknowledgement it would only be impossible to accommodate so many names of people who have helped me in various ways in my humble endeavour. I feel extremely indebted and honoured at the same time to express my sincere gratitude to those who have contributed to this thesis and supported me in one way or the other during this awesome journey.

At the outset, I would like to take the opportunity of expressing my deep sense of gratitude to my Supervisor, Ramesh Kumar Mujoo, retired Associate Professor, Department of Education, Assam University, for his relentless effort, co-operation and encouragement in the area of study of this doctoral work. He has always put his high level of energy and vision woven with expertise in pursuance of this work. He has always inspired and motivated me to pursue the work independently and shared his knowledge and understanding regarding the work whenever required.

In this study, I have been assisted by many persons especially during the phase of data collection in Haflong and Umrangso towns of North Cachar Hills District (presently known as Dima Hasao District). Bishnu Prasad Ghimire, Subject Teacher, Haflong Govt. Boys School, Moloy Krishna Das, Head Master, Kapili High School, Umrangso, my students Subir Kumar Deb and Ranjita Kemprai, and many others have offered selfless help and enriched me with their experiences in door to door survey in the two towns of the afore-mentioned district which is featured with dangerous hilly terrains, poor transport and communication system and often paralysed by insurgent activities. So, I owe my heartfelt gratitude and appreciation for them.

I must express my thanks to all the renowned persons of various tribal communities for their active co-operation and sharing their views and necessary information required for my research work.

In addition, I consider it my privilege to mention a few other persons who became close over the last several years due to this research work. My sincere thanks goes to Dr. Geetika Bagchi, Head, Department of Education, Professor Debasish Bhattacharjee and Debotosh Chakraborty, Assistant Professor, Department of Political Science, and Panthapriyo Dhar, Assistant Professor, Department of English, G.C College, Silchar for extending their cooperation, support and necessary guidance in difficult times.

I would also like to place on record my sincere appreciation and thanks for Mr. Debangshu Chakraborty of M/s Nicety Graphics, Silchar for his indomitable passion and co-operation in setting the chapters and giving a final shape to the thesis.

I also wish to thank my Parents, Wife, Daughter, Brothers, Sisters, and in-laws for their love and inspiration which have always been the motivational force towards the completion of this research work. They have acted as unfailing friends and kept standing by me throughout the journey in the time of pains or pleasure. I owe a lot to my brother-in-law Debasis Deb, Senior Scientist, DRDO, Bangalore, as I was enriched by his ideas and deep insights especially during my stay with him in Bangalore at the time of review of the work with my supervisor.

Finally, I shall remain indebted to all those persons who have directly or indirectly lent their support in the completion of this doctoral work.
