ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

With great pleasure, I express my deep sense of gratitude to Dr Mathew Joseph, my supervisor, for his unfaltering guidance, valuable suggestions and the meticulous care with which he scrutinized each page of this dissertation. I am also grateful to my co-guide, Dr. Raseena Badnaw, for her unassuming assistance and directions in matters concerning the psychological part of the work.

I am greatly indebted to Dr. T. V. Thomas, Professor T. R. S. Iyer and Dr. Sushaprabha M. who showed genuine interest in this work and made available many important books.

I acknowledge my profound gratitude to the librarian of A S R C for kindly permitting me to make use of their library facilities. I am thankful to the Director, A S R C for sanctioning me a Teacher Research Grant. I am also obliged to the librarian of the School of Behavioural Sciences, Gandhinagar, Kottayam, for lending me useful books on psychology.

I place on record my most sincere thanks to my friends, my parents and all the members of my family who encouraged me immensely and steered me into the destination despite the disheartening obstacles on the way.

Special thanks are due to my husband Adv. George Alan, for being my mainstay during this venture. I gratefully remember my little son Albert, for his kind tolerance and policy of non-interference without which this effort would not have materialised.

I sincerely thank Mrs. Copy Write Eitumanoor, for the word processing and photocopying of this work.
