ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I express my heartful gratitude to my research supervisors Prof. P. Sourirajan and Prof. G. N. Reddy, who took keen interest in the subject and guided me with affection. It was during my M.A., course that I was inspired by the scholarly lectures of Prof. P. Sourirajan and was drawn towards the present subject. It was Prof. G. N. Reddy who showed me a way of systematic method of thinking in the field of Linguistics. I feel that I am very fortunate to have two supervisors who are veterans in their own fields. It is their guidance which has made the present study successful. I am unable to express my sincere gratitude to them in words.

Prof. S. V. Shanmugam, Prof. N. Kumarswamy Raja and Dr. K. Murugaiyan of Annamalai University, Centre for Advanced study of Linguistics helped me in many aspects. It was during my stay at Annamalai University for the summer Institute in Linguistics, I came into contact with these elderly scholars. During the discussion with them, I was able to arrive at certain conclusions.

Dr. H. S. Brahmananda, Reader in Telugu, Sri Krishnadevaraya University, took keen interest in my studies and it was his initiative which made me work hard and complete the thesis soon. My thanks are due to him. The staff members of the Telugu Department, Sri Krishnadevaraya University helped me in many respects.

My thanks are due to Dr. P. Bayapa Reddy, Reader in English, Sri Krishnadevaraya University, who has gone through the manuscript of my thesis and made corrections and suggestions.

I am really grateful to Mr. K. Lakshminarasad, my brother-in-Law who gave me moral support in many respects.

I herewith acknowledge the help rendered by the Librarians and the library staff-members of Sri Krishnadevaraya University, Sri Venkateswara University and Annamalai University.

It will not be right on my part if I donot record the encouragement and co-operation rendered by my parents during the study. With great humility, I acknowledge their help.

During the collection of data and recording of the pronunciation of the Hindustani loanwords many people have helped me. For want of space I could not mention their names here. But I can say that it was their kind help which made my study fruitful.
I owe a lot to the members of staff of the Urdu Department, Sri Venkateswara University, who readily cleared off my doubts regarding the Hindustani language.

I express my thanks to Sri R.S. Murthy, who typed the matter with utmost care and sincerity.

I once again express my heartfelt gratitude to all, mentioned above. Though I did not helped them in any way, they wholeheartedly extended their helping hand to me, such help is unparalleled one. In what way that I could convey my regards except uttering the words of Saint Tiruvalluvar,

"Ceyyāmal ceyta utavikku vaiyakamum vāyakamum āṟṟal aritu"

(Tirukkural - 101)
