ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

It is my pleasant duty first of all to place on record my sense of profound gratitude to my revered teacher, Professor V.C. Misra, Head of the Department of General and Applied Geography and Dean, Students Welfare, University of Sagar. He has been an unfailing source of strength and encouragement to all the students of the Department. Professor Misra not only provided me with all the needed research facilities but also guided my work in its later stages.

The debt of obligation I owe to the late Professor N.P. Ayyar, Head of the Department of Geography, Shivaji University, Kolhapur, defies articulation. The present work was conceived, planned and designed under his guidance when he was at Sagar. He did not spare any effort to help me even after he left for his assignment at Kolhapur. However, God snatched him from our midst in May this year. May his soul rest in peace. If there is any merit in this work, it is wholly due to his guidance.
My teacher Dr (Smt) Pramila Kumar, presently Director, Madhya Pradesh Hindi Granth Academy, Bhopal, gave me her help and support unreservedly all through my educational career. I cannot adequately express my gratitude to her. Help came in many ways from my teachers Dr R.S.Dubey, Dr B.S.Shrivastava, Dr S.K.Sharma and Dr S.K. Shukla, for which I am thankful. Dr J.L.Jain has been both a kind friend and an adviser. I am very grateful for the kind cooperation I received from my fellow research scholars in the Department, particularly from Smt Archana Bhargava, Smt Indira Sharma and Sri C.K.Jain. Dr Pratap Chandra helped me in many ways at various stages of the work. Miss Padma Thirumalai lent a helping hand in the preparation of the thesis.

A number of offices and institutions provided me with valuable information and data. I express my gratefulness to all of them. I am particularly grateful to Sri Napiresh, Director, Town and Country Planning, Bhopal for providing me maps and other information.

Last but by no means least, I thank Sri Raja Ram Vishwakarma and Sri A.R.Khan of the departmental office and Sri Jacob Massey, the first two for rendering invaluable assistance in more ways than can be counted and to the last for typing out this work with meticulous care.
