PREFACE

The main stimulation for undertaking this study was the random experiences of positive and negative affect, and the observed and experienced individual differences in these mood states. But a final touch for a systematic study was given by Dr. Novrattan Sharma, whose scholarly guidance helped me throughout and sustained my interest in the study. My intellectual debt on him is gratefully acknowledged and I welcome this opportunity to record my heartfelt gratitude and sincere thanks to him for his valuable suggestions, able guidance and encouragement at every stage of not only this work but also at every stage of my academic career.

I also express my sincere thanks and gratitude to Dr. Rajbir Singh, Professor, Department of Psychology, M. D. University, Rohtak, for his matured and valuable suggestions from time to time. I also express my heartfelt gratefulness to Dr. (Mrs.) Amrita Yadava, Reader, Department of Psychology, M. D. University, Rohtak, for the continuous encouragement. Further, I express my deep gratitude to all the teachers of Department of Psychology, M. D. University, Rohtak, for their support and cooperation.

I am also thankful to Prof. Ed Diener for his necessary help in carrying out the present study and to Dr. Andy Field whose expertise in the statistical analysis of the data (using SPSS) proved to be a real help.

I also express my thanks to the respondents who participated in this research work, to my friends and colleagues at Vaish PG College, Bhiwani, and the technical staff of the laboratory of the Department of Psychology, M. D. University, who always extended their kind co-operation at the various stages of the work.
I am also highly grateful to the library staff of the University for their co-operation in providing me the access to the pertinent literature both printed as well as electronic through Internet facility.

I am greatly indebted to my wife Meenu, who always stood by me during thick and thin and constantly encouraged me in my studies and research. My daughter, Aashima, with her pleasing disposition and loving gestures has always cheered me and provided relief for me from tension at many a times during the course of my work.

Last but not the least, my indebtedness and regards are due to my parents - Sh. K. S. Sharma and Smt. Mohan Wati Sharma, who always prove to be the real and natural source of inspiration to me.

The support from various sources which I received in the course of study can not be adequately acknowledged in few words. Some help, which in itself was often too small, meant the difference between success and failure. I wish to thank all the authors and institutions whom I could not mention in particular, but any way furthered the work.

Rohtak
Dated: 09.08.2002

(Ashok Sharma)