I am thankful to them for always being there when I needed them most, and never once complaining about how infrequently I talk to them during my research work, they deserve far more credit than I can ever give them.

I am also thankful to my beloved Parents who put the fundament in my learning character, showing me the joy of intellectual pursuit ever since I was a child and sincerely raised me with their caring and gentle love. My younger Brother, Nirav, thanks for being a supportive and caring brother, always there to make me laugh. I also dedicate this work to my Grandfather and Grandmother who left us too soon in this journey of life. I hope that this work makes them proud. I also thank all family members for their unconditional support.

Especially, I would like to give my special thanks to my husband Dr. Jigar Shah whose patient love and encouragement enabled me to complete this work. His support, motivation, and companionship have turned my journey through into a pleasure. He deserves special mention for his endless love, patience, understanding which provided me inspiration and his crucial contribution around the work, which made him a backbone of this research and so to this thesis. I cordially thank my lovely daughter KASHVI and son SAMYAK whose cute and smiling faces, remove all my hassles and tiredness of the day and give me energy to start the day with new optimism.

It will be really unfair if I don’t mention about my innocent rats and mice, if this project has been successful, it is just because of them only.

Last, but not least, I express my gratitude to almighty (the supreme soul) for always being with me and blessing me and also apologize anybody whose contributions, I could not mention here.
