ACKNOWLEDGMENT

During this journey from the start of the research and now when I am submitting the final thesis report, I feel much enriched. The journey is full of mixed emotions sometimes there is a feeling of accomplishment and sometimes a lot of frustration of not reaching anywhere. But in the last it was very fruitful experience, a learning experience. If I am able to reach to the destination, it is because of some very important persons in my life. Foremost, I am very thankful to my guide Dr. Pushpinder Singh Gill for his unwavering trust in me. It is because of his vision and guidance; I am able to accomplish this task.

I would also express my deepest gratitude to grandparents. My Grand Father is a role model for me and I dedicate this work to him.

It is very difficult to express in words the contribution of my parents. I am very thankful to them for having deep sense of trust in me that whatever I will do it will be right. This trust has given me a lot of impetus to do the good things in life.

I am also very thankful to my son, Rehaan, for understanding me whenever I was not able to give attention to him. I gratefully acknowledge the support of my wife, Ruchi. She has been pillar of strength for me.

I am very thankful to the staff of PSPCL who have supported me and helped me to complete this research. Sincere thanks to Mr. Arun Verma, Director (Distribution), PSPCL who was very encouraging and always supported and guided me throughout the research.

I am deeply indebted to all my friends and well wishers for constantly encouraging me and motivating me to do the best especially I am thankful to my friend Gaurav Sachdeva for his unconditional support.

Last but not the least, God, for giving me strength to accomplish this task. This is just a start and still miles to go. Inshahh Allah.
