ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I wish to acknowledge the help and encouragement friends and well-wishers have extended to me, during the course of my Ph.D. work. I begin with my Research Guide, Dr. Amina Amin, Reader, Department of English, School of Languages, Gujarat University. I am deeply grateful to her for the care and concern with which she supervised my work. She has been a constant source of inspiration and encouragement for me.

My thanks are due to Professor R. A. Malagi, Director, School of Languages, and Head of the Department of English, Gujarat University, for helping me in several ways, during the course of my work in the department. My sincere thanks to Prof. Digish Mehta, Department of English, School of Languages, Gujarat University, and Dr. Anila Dalal, retired lecturer in English, who guided me in the documentation of the thesis.

I take this opportunity to express my warmest thanks to Dr. Gira Kotak for patiently reading through the final draft of my thesis and for the many useful suggestions she has made. My sincere thanks to Mrs. M. R. Shah, lecturer in English, and Jayashree Shah for patiently reading through the preliminary draft of my thesis. I am thankful to Daisy Ardeshir of the American Studies Research Centre, Saroj Merani, Programme Manager at the American Centre, USIS, Bombay, and Mr. Muralidharan for helping me with titles of books and journals and also critical material on Ellen Glasgow.

In particular, I wish to acknowledge the invaluable assistance extended by the American Studies Research Centre, Hyderabad. But for the help offered by the Centre, I would not have been able to pursue my work. I thank very sincerely the British Library, The Gujarat University Library, the M. J. Library and the Smt. Sadguna Arts College Library for the books and research materials made available to me.

I am thankful to Mr. A.I. Amin for undertaking the printing of my thesis.

Finally my warmest thanks are due, of course, to my silent supporters and all-around assistants, my husband and my family members.
