ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I consider it a privilege to express my sincere and deep gratitude to Dr. B.N. Sharma, Professor and Head of the Department of History, Doctor Harisingh Gour Vishwavidyalaya, Sagar, and former Vice-Chancellor of Bhopal University, for encouraging me to take up this work and for his valuable guidance. His constant interest and help were a source of great inspiration to me and I cannot express my thanks adequately.

I am grateful to Prof. J.S. Mathur, Director, Gandhi Bhavan, Allahabad University, for initiating me into the intricacies of Gandhian Ideology and Thinking and for his encouragements throughout.

I am extremely thankful to the numerous freedom fighters and their descendants for their interviews and correspondence. I am indebted to Acharya J.B. Kripalani, late Vinoba Bhave and Pt. D.P. Mishra, former Vice-Chancellor of this University and the former Chief Minister of Madhya Pradesh, for their interest shown in my work.

I am highly grateful to Dr. J.J. Baker, Professor of History, St. Stephen’s College, Delhi, Dr. S.K. Bakshi, Research Officer, Senghu Memorial Library, New Delhi, eminent historians : Dr. Ishwari Prasad, Dr. Motilal Bhargava, Prof. K.D. Bajpai, and my esteemed teachers of Allahabad University, for their valuable suggestions and inspiration.

I owe much to the Government of India, Madhya Pradesh and Maharashtra, who allowed me access to their records. I am thankful to the librarians and staff of the following institutions, who gave me every kind of assistance: the National Archives of India, New Delhi; the Senghu Memorial Library, New Delhi; Gandhi Smarak and Sangrahalya, New Delhi; Indian Council of Social Sciences and Research, New Delhi; Indian Council of Historical Research, New Delhi; The Gitavada Library, Nagpur; The Record Room, Madhya Pradesh Secretariat, Bhopal; the Gazetteers' Library, Bhopal; the Record Room, Maharashtra Secretariat, Nagpur; and the University Libraries of Delhi; Nagpur; Saugar; Bhopal; Ujjain, Indore; Jabalpur; and Raipur.

My thanks are due to the University Grants Commission, New Delhi, for providing me a teacher-fellowship to conduct this study. I am indebted to the then management of Shri Shri Laxmi Narain Trust Ranch Valley Mahavidyalaya, Parasia, M.p., for providing me the opportunity to undertake this research work. I am also thankful to my present employer, the Government of Madhya Pradesh, for extending the period of my teacher-fellowship.

I am indebted to a large number of friends, and in particular to Shri M.D. Goswami, Teacher-Fellow in Commerce and Shri V.K. Dua, Teacher-Fellow in Botany, J.T.D. Saugar. Both have provided stimulus and encouragement when it was much needed and have been forthcoming in their time and friendship when it was equally wanted.

I express my thanks from the core of my heart to my wife who has smilingly embraced the obvious sufferings during the course of this work. In addition, I owe my sincerest gratitude to my mother who has always been a constant source of inspiration in my life.

Finally, I remember the affectionate inspiration of my all the three brothers, the only sister, and revered father, who are not alive to see this work.
