Acknowledgement

This thesis would not have been possible without the guidance and the help of several individuals who in one way or another contributed and extended their valuable assistance in the preparation and completion of this study. It is not possible for me to mention the names of all whose valuable contribution has helped in my research work. Yet, I am trying to express my anonymous thanks to them.

It is difficult to overstate my gratitude to Prof. P. Bahadur, whose supervision, guidance and support from the initial to the final level enabled me to develop an understanding of the subject. With his enthusiasm, inspiration and his great efforts to explain things clearly and simply, makes my research work unproblematic. Above all and the most needed, he provided me unflinching encouragement and support in various ways. His truly scientist intuition has made him, as a constant flow of ideas and passions in science, which exceptionally inspireand enrich my growth as a student and a researcher. I am indebted to him more than he knows.

I would like to acknowledge my postgraduate mentor Prof. K. K. Desai for his teaching that has triggered and nourished my intellectual maturity that I will benefit from, for a long time to come.

I gratefully acknowledge my labmates Dr. Paresh Parekh, Arpan Parmar, Nilesh Dharaiya, Vijay Patel and Mehul Khimani for providing a stimulating and fun environment in which to learn and grow. I wish to express my special note of thanks to seniors Drs. Dharmesh Varade, Jitendra Mata, Kalpesh Sidhapuria, Keyur Patel, Tejas Patel, Bhavesh Bharatiya, Ketan Kuperkar and Yogesh Kadam for their advice and their willingness to share their bright thoughts with me, which were veryfruitful for shaping up my ideas and research. I also express my thanks to Dr. Neelam Mishra and Jagruti Barot.

I am grateful to my respected uncle Dahyabhai and aunty Sitaben for their support, encouragement and help in my overall education. I also acknowledge all my relatives for their honest support for completing of my research work.

This thesis is dedicated to my family; none of this would have been possible without their love, patience and prayer. My special appreciation goes to my parents Mr. Lakhabhai Chavda and Mrs. Chanchalben Chavdawho sincerely raised me with their caring and gently loves and for their indefatigable belief in me despite their incomprehension about what I do. They put the fundamentals of my learning character, showing me the joy of intellectual chase ever since I was a child, believed in my ability and supported me in my study. I cannot thank enough to my brother Dilip and sister-in-low Umaben who always kept me away from family responsibilities and encouraged me to concentrate on my study and for showing me what it is to be a free spirit. I also like to convey my love to my little nephew Yuvraj who brought such joy in my life and always makes me happy with his adorable dancing and talks. In reality, my family cherishes my success. Without them, all the achievements become meaningless. Thank you very much for everything you have done to me.

Lastly, I offer my honest respect to my grandfather late Chhitabhai Vankar, grandmother late Devben Vankar, my Nanaji Somabhai Jambu, Nani late Ramiben Jambu and my uncle late Ashabhai Chavda whose blessings is always with me to support in every challenges of my life.
