ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The investigator owes a great deal of gratitude to his guide, Dr. T.V. Rao, Professor of Organisational Behaviour, Indian Institute of Management, Ahmedabad, for his guidance, encouragement, and constant support throughout the course of this study and without whose help this study would not have been completed.

The investigator also feels indebted very much to Dr. Sawai Leamkaew of the Prince of Songkhla University, Dr. Somboon Chitpeng of the Srinakarinth Viroj University (Prasarnmitr), Dr. Grang Phraibwan of the Office of the Private Education Commission, the Ministry of Education, and Dr. Kovith Prawalphreg of the Office of Test in Education, the Ministry of Education, Thailand, for their suggestions during the early stages of this research work.

He is thankful to the principals, teachers, pupils of primary schools, and people in the provinces of Yala, Pattani, Narathiwat, and Satun of Thailand, who extended their willing co-operation to make the present study a success.

He is also thankful to his colleagues and others whose help and co-operation in collecting and processing data enabled him to complete his research work.

October, 1981. (Nares Sriratana)