ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The present study has been undertaken under the guidance of Professor V.P. Bharadwaj during my tenure as U.G.C. Teacher Fellow at the Department of Economics, Gujarat University, Ahmedabad. It's present shape is because of the support and encouragement received from various individuals and institutions. I acknowledge my deep sense of gratitude to the University Grants Commission for the financial assistance it provided to me under Faculty Improvement Programme. I am extremely grateful to Sarvajanik Education Society and to the Principal T.M. Vakil, Sir K.P. College of Commerce, Surat, for permitting me to avail of this opportunity of devoting full time to this study. I am deeply grateful to Prof. M.P. Bhatt, Professor and Head, Department of Economics and Director, University School of Social Sciences, Gujarat University; for providing me the opportunity and constant encouragement for undertaking the present study. In fact he introduced me to this field of study and suggested me to work on the present topic.

In preparing my doctoral dissertation I remain indebted to my Guide Professor V.P. Bharadwaj, who has been a source of continuous inspiration. I have completed the work in time due to his readiness to devote time inspite of his heavy academic commitments and engagements. He always came to help whenever I had any methodological and conceptual puzzles and difficulties.

I deeply acknowledge the insights provided by the work of some distinguished scholars Michael Lipton, J.W. Mellor, Sudipto Mundle, Ashok Mody, K.N. Raj, A.S. Kahlon, D.S. Tyagi, V.P. Gandhi, S.L. Shetty and Ashok Dar. I owe much to all these my predecessors in the field though I have not met them personally.

During the course of my study I was benefitted from discussion with Professor M.S. Trivedi, Vice Chancellor, South Gujarat University, Surat, who took interest in my work, especially when he was a Visiting Professor at Department of Economics, Gujarat University, Ahmedabad. The discussion with Dr. P.R. Brahmananda, Director and Head of Economics Department, University of Bombay proved to be useful to me. He was kind enough to me in providing all facilities at reference section of the Jawaharlal Nehru Library, Kalina, Bombay. I am indebted to Dr. M.N. Raval, Formerly Professor of Economics at South Gujarat University for encouraging me to go for advanced research work after completing my M.Phil study under his guidance. My discussions with my friend Dr. M.G. Rao at National Institute of Public Finance and Policy, New Delhi were helpful in many ways. I express my thanks to him.

At the School of Social Sciences I received constant encouragement from several faculty members. I wish to mention thanks especially to Dr. C.H. Thaker, Dr. V.K. Chawda, Dr. P.K. Dave, and Prof. P.C. Vora who have provided encouragement during my study. I am especially thankful to Dr. Rajesh Pandey with regard to computer programming.

I am thankful to different research institutions. Particularly, Social Science Documentation Centre and Western Regional Centre of ICSSR at Delhi and Bombay respectively for providing me library facilities.

My thanks are due to Smt. Bala Subramaniam who has typed the manuscript with utmost care.

Last but not the least, I cannot forget my wife Sushila, son Kalpesh and daughter Rupal for cheerfully tolerating me during my endeavour.

Ahmedabad
Date: October 85

G.N. Joshi
U.G.C. Teacher Fellow
School of Social Sciences
Gujarat University
Ahmedabad 9