Acknowledgements

In bringing out this study I am indebted to numerous persons for help of various kinds. I can, however, mention only a few of them in such a short space.

First and foremost, I am deeply indebted to my guide, Dr. M.B. Karnik, but for whose expert guidance, sympathetic understanding of my problems, painstaking care in examining every manuscript, making valuable suggestions and constantly giving a better shape to my work, this task would have taken a much longer time to come to its completion. It is difficult for me to find suitable words to express my sincere gratitudes to him.

I am thankful to Prin. H. J. Pandit for his inspiration and encouragement. My thanks are also due to my colleagues of Vivekanand College of Education, Ahmedabad, for their willing co-operation and to the trainees studying at this college during the years I was working on this thesis for helping me in various ways.

I am also thankful to Sardar Patel Institute of Economic and Social Research, Ahmedabad, for allowing me to use their library.
