CHAPTER V – SUGGESTIONS

The Educational Bodies like the All India Council of Technical Education, University Grants Commission should understand the importance of communication skills and soft skills in the overall grooming of the students. Communication skills and soft skills must be included in the curriculum and made mandatory for the students and they should become proficient in it. The management schools should have task based skill development program to inculcate such skills easily in the students, right from the start of the course. The Management Institutions can have interactive sessions with the industries and corporate houses in order to get a better acquaintance of the corporate standards.

Scope for Future Research
Any researcher doing further research on this topic should look into the implementation of the suggestion given in this study and assess the impact as well. They should also look into the aspect of the change required in the curriculum at the B-School level to suit the needs of the corporate and the industries that would be absorbing these B-School students. The needs of Corporate and Industries should also be looked into to make a parlance with the B-School teachers, since it is often seen that the teaching staff is way behind the actual industrial needs thereby creating a gap which affects the student’s performance.
