ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

My deep sense of gratitude to my worthy guide, Dr. J.H. Shah (Retired Professor and Head, Department of Education, Gujarat University, Ahmedabad) who took all pains to see my work finished and took all possible care of leading me to the right path of research concerning the subject of my study, just as a kind-hearted father leads his son to the untrodden trails of life. I frankly confess that without his continuous and able support, my research work would not have seen the light of the day.

I am thankful to Shri Govindbhai T. Patel - the M.Ed. student of department of Education in the year 1989 whose pre-pilot study on "Edward Personal Preference Schedule" was used as a basis for the first pilot study while adapting EPPS for Gujarati pupils.

I am thankful to Principal R.R. Dave (College of Education, Mundra, District Kutch) who inspired me in taking up this work. Dr. A.M.S. Abbasi was helpful to me whenever the need arose during my work. I am thankful to him for his timely help. Besides, I also express my thanks to my colleagues at the Education College, Mundra for taking keen interest in my work.
I am highly indebted to all the Heads of schools and colleges, the staff and the students who gave me a lot of support and cooperation in the process of conducting the test and in collecting the data required.
