I am heartily thankful to my guide Dr. Sangeeta, Programme Officer (BSC), BRNS, whose guidance and support from the initial to the final level enabled me to develop an understanding of the subject and writing this dissertation. She never accepted less than my best efforts.

I would like to extend my heartfelt gratitude to Dr. S. C. Gadkari, Head, CTS, who made this thesis possible and has made available his vital and unflinching support in a number of ways.

I would also like to show my deep gratitude to Dr. S. C. Sabharwal, Professor, IIT Rajasthan, for teaching me the basics of crystal growth and characterization.

I would like to thank Shri V. K. Handu, Head, TPD, for allowing me to carry out this work and encouraging me throughout the work.

It is a pleasure to thank Dr. B. N. Jagtap, Head, A&MPD and Dr. N. K. Sahoo, Head, ASD for their guidance and motivation.

I must express my sincere thanks to Dr. A. K. Chauhan and Dr. Shashwati Sen for encouraging me through the dissertation process. I would like to show my gratitude to Dr. S. Auluck, Professor, IIT Kanpur, for guiding me in theoretical calculations. I am indebted to many of my colleagues, Shri D. G. Desai, Shri S. G. Singh, and Shri A. K. Singh for their help in crystal growth experiments and valuable advices during the course of this work. I would like to thank other faculty members of Crystal technology section (CTS) for their assistance in number of experiments. I owe my gratitude to Shri R. B. Tokas, ASD, for optical experiments and to Shri Ashwani Kumar, HP&SRPD, for useful discussion regarding software and programmes used during the completion of this work. It is my great pleasure to acknowledge all of my friends for their invaluable support.

Words alone cannot express what I owe to my parents who always encouraged and supported me to come over the stressed situations. Their blessings made this thesis possible.

Last, but not the least, I would like to show my gratitude from the depth of my heart to my lovely wife Shipra, who have always supported me and made me relaxed in the burdensome situations. Her affectionate love and smile of my lovely daughter played a vital role in completion of this dissertation.

Mohit Tyagi