ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I am glad to acknowledge my indebtedness to all those who helped me, directly or indirectly, during the course of this study. Although, many people have helped me in various ways, I can single out only a few for a special mention.

At the outset, I must express my gratitude to all my respondents for their valuable cooperation. Some of them generously spared their precious time for prolonged interviews, spread over several sittings, held at odd hours of the day or night.

I have no words to sufficiently express the profound debt of gratitude to my guide Professor N.R. Sheth, Director, Indian Institute of Management, Ahmedabad, for his continuous help and warm support which he generously extended to me. His gentle admonishments and incisive comments not only sharpened the focus of the study but also rectified the errors of facts and inferences. Equally I should make it clear that I am wholly responsible for any inaccuracies or errors that might still appear in the study.

My thanks are likewise due to Professor Robert Moore, Professor and Head, Department of Sociology, University of Aberdeen, UK. Professor Moore had come to Baroda for a short academic visit but he was kind enough to go through each chapter thoroughly and give his valuable suggestions.

For the sampling plan and statistical analysis I was immensely benefitted by my discussions with Professor Vimal P. Shah, Professor and Head, Department of Sociology, Gujarat University, Ahmedabad,
Professor Shri Hari, Professor and Head, Department of Statistics, M.S. University, Baroda, Dr. D.K. Shah, Reader, Department of Statistics, M.S. University, Baroda, Shri J.C. Sharma and Shri R.D. Nayak, both of Tata Institute of Social Sciences, Bombay.

I am grateful to Mrs. Augusta Paul, Mr. Nanmohan Sane and Miss C.N. Bharucha for their valuable help in data collection and data processing.

I express my appreciation to the staff of the Computer Centre of M.S. University, Baroda for their help in data analysis.

My friends Professor H.R. Chaturvedi, Senior Fellow, Centre for the Study of Developing Societies, Delhi, Professor Pantham Thomas, Department of Political Science, M.S. University, Baroda, Dr. H.M. Rajyaguru, Reader, Faculty of Social Work, M.S. University, Baroda, and Shri Sandeep Patel, who is currently doing his Ph.D at Wharton School, USA, helped me in too numerous ways to be counted.

At the end, I must express my deepest sense of gratitude to my wife Jyotsana and son Bankim who not only sacrificed much and cheerfully shouldered many burdens but also at times worked as research assistants. I am grateful to Jyotsana for painstakingly typing several drafts of each chapter, what at times must have appeared endless revisions.
