DE DICATION

"To all green, growing, flowering ones of this beautiful planet, who embody the universal creative healing energy, and with each moment, humbly assume the grand task of transforming light into life, and who patiently bear the crude assaults and insults of our misguided ignorance, all in the dream of awakening. Without their conscious, living presence, nothing, no breath nor food, no life, no delight.

None of our earthly endeavors would be possible."

(Michael Tierra.)

"I salute this selfless living kingdom of plants with all my humility & take this endeavour in conserving, protecting & propagating them to receive their unleashed wisdom and auspicious healing energy for all."
