Acknowledgements

With profound gratitude, this is to acknowledge deep regards to the unfailing support, consistent guidance and persuasive inspiration of my supervisor Dr. Virendra Sharma, who had been there all the way up to the completion of this research work and with his critical incisive comments helped me in refining and redesigning the thoughts and presentations. My thanks are also due to Dr. Gautamveer for his continued support and sincere help.

I am thankful to the staff at Nehru Memorial Library, Teen Murti House, New Delhi, Sapru House Library, Parliamentary Library and also the library at Indraprastha College for women, New Delhi for their cordial assistance and help.

I am deeply thankful to Amir Khan, a close friend at Delhi for taking unforgettable pain in typing multitude of drafts for this work without ever complaining for the odd timings of work.

My acknowledgements would be incomplete without recounting on those without whom I could not have visualized this dream, includes my mother, father and my father in law, who all have blessed me throughout this long journey.

At a personal level, I would take this opportunity to thank my husband in particular for being a rock solid source of inspiration, guidance and strength. I am also blessed to have a son like Sufi, for never ever complaining the shortage of time, which I used to stole and devote to the study. Last but not the least, this is to thank Allah the Almighty to be there always for me.
