Acknowledgements

First and foremost, I owe very special thanks to Dr. K.L. Verma, Professor S.O.S. Literature & Languages, Pt. Ravishankar Shukla University, Raipur, my mentor and guide without whose help this work would have not seen the light of day. I cannot adequately express my indebtedness to him for his moral and emotional support. My major intellectual debt is also to his amiable responses that provided insights and shaped my writing of this thesis. My indebtedness to him is in evidence practically in every chapter of this study.

With much appreciation, I record my deep sense of indebtedness to Dr. (Prof.) Chittranjan Kar, Head, S.O.S. in Literature & Languages, Pt. Ravishankar Shukla University, Raipur who gave me required moral support and practical assistance without which my exploration would have foundered. As a student I shall always remember the intellectual stimulation and encouragement he provided me until the completion of the typescript.

My sincerest record of appreciation travels compulsorily to Dr. Santosh K. Sareen, Professor and Chairperson, Centre and School of Linguistics and English, Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi for providing me every book that is indispensable in shaping this thesis. His assistance is beyond every word of praise.

I owe a special word of thanks to Dr. Shailbala Sharma
Reader S.O.S., Pt. Ravishankar Shukla University, Raipur who introduced me to Dr. K.L Verma and paved way for the shaping of this thesis. She is now my bosom friend and I shall treasure her companionship forever with much care and efforts.

I also extend an earnest word of gratitude to Dr. Ashok Parekh, Principal, Durga Mahavidhyalaya, Raipur (C.G.), for permitting me to carry out my research work with total ease by providing a congenial work-space.

This work would have not been possible without the enormous help of my father-in-law Dr. P.C. Kamra, Retd. Principal, Model College of Science, Raipur. He made a painstaking exercise in proof reading the manuscript. I also express my deep sense of gratitude to my husband Mr. Ravi Kamra who worked for late hours, computerizing the manuscript and so it was more than welcome and happy collaboration. My appreciation is also to my mother-in-law for her concern for me and of my children during long hours of exhaustion and mental strain.

I owe a special but heart-felt sense of gratitude to my student Ms. Sumiparna Maiti who sat for long hours making the necessary corrections in the main copy of this thesis. That she followed my prescriptions word by word shows her zeal and dedication to my work and me. I deeply appreciate her sincerity.
Not least, I am indebted to the library and office staff of Pt. Ravishankar Shukla University, School of Studies, for their sincere help and personal kindness in providing required books on short notice. I also thank Mr. Sushil Patle for having compiled the thesis faultlessly.

Madhoo Kamra