ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The research embodied in this thesis has been carried out in the DEPARTMENT OF ECONOMETRICS SRI VENKATESWARA UNIVERSITY TIRUPATI under the supervision of Dr V KODANDARAMI REDDY READER and HEAD Department of Econometrics. I feel it a proud privilege to record my deep sense of gratitude and indebtedness to Dr V KODANDARAMI REDDY for suggesting this problem giving continued guidance evincing keen interest and giving encouragement throughout the course of this study and also for kindly going through the manuscript.

I profusely thank Dr L Kannaiah Naidu Professor of Econometrics and Director Centre for Planning and Development Studies for extending constant encouragement.

My thanks are also due to Dr D Bathalaiah Dr C P Kasaiah and Dr V Balakrishnam Naidu faculty members Department of Econometrics for giving me their constant encouragement.

I am deeply indebted to Dr C Subbaiah Reddy Dr P Balasiddamuni Dr P Rajasekhar Reddy and Dr K V S Sharma Readers in the Department of Statistics for the keen interest they have shown in my research work and to Prof P V Arunachalam Department of Mathematics for his affectionate encouragement and moral support.
I am grateful to Dr S Padmanabhaiah Reader and Dr D Ramakrishnalah Lecturer in the Department of Education for the keen interest they have shown for the progress of my research work and inspiration they have given me. I am also thankful to Dr C Devarajula Naidu and Dr V Jayasimhulu Naidu Readers in the Department of Economics for their helpful discussions.

I immensely thank Prof N S Iyengar Head Economic Analysis Unit Indian Statistical Institute Bangalore for rendering all types of support and for the keen interest he has shown in my research and for the suggestions he has given me.

I cherish with gratitude the affectionate assistance and personal attention shown to me by Miss N S Manjula Saradha Research Scholar under the supervision of Prof N S Iyengar Economic Analysis Unit Indian Statistical Institute Bangalore.

I particularly wish to express my sincere gratitude to Mrs V K Reddy for her patience and understanding shown to me throughout the writing of this thesis.

I am thankful to my Co-Scholar Mr N V Muralidhar Rao for his affectionate assistance shown to me throughout this dissertation. I also express my sincere thanks to Mr Ramana Prasad, Mr Surendrababu Research scholars in the department for helping me in various ways.
From the depth of my heart I would like to thank the Librarian and the Staff of S V University for their co-operation in the collection of literature. I extend my sincere thanks to the Librarian, Indian Statistical Institute, Bangalore for providing me the valuable data and literature to complete the work.

Words fail to express my deep gratitude and respectable regards to my beloved parents, brothers and sister-in-law who have provided me the opportunity, financial support and encouragement for completing this project. My heartiest wishes go to my youngsters of the family for their co-operation.

I would like to express my gratitude to my cronies Mr. A. Saiprasad, Dr. Sambamurthy, Mr. Nagesh, Mr. P. S. Babu, Mr. K. V. Rao, Mr. P. S. Vasu, Mr. M. M. Reddy, Mr. Sastry, Mr. D. L. Reddy, Mr. Suresh Reddy, Mr. O. Narendra and Mr. Chandiaoble Reddy who have helped me directly or indirectly in many ways and my thanks are also extended to Dr. K. S. R. Datta, Sri Sethuram and to Sri Venugopal Aluri for their moral support.

Finally, I also acknowledge with thanks the help of Mr. P. G. Manohari, Mr. P. K. Subramanyam and Mr. K. Gangaiah, non-teaching staff in the Department for the kind assistance given to me.

S. Venakata Seshaiah