REFERENCES

Anbaj Chamani, A. (2008). The survey of obstacles in the use of educational technology in teaching and learning process from the perspective of Dallape, D. A. (2004). Technological developments that will influence teachers’ use of technology to improve student learning in California’s public elementary schools by the year 2007. Ed.D., University of La

Di Vesta, F.J. (1987). The cognitive movement and education. Plenum Press. @ 0306423545

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki http://www.irandoc

http://www.ir.lib.ntnu.edu.tw

http://www.magiran.com

http://www.namamatn.ir

http://www.roshdmag.ir

http://www.google.com

http://trc.isfedu.org

Gender Differences. Journal of Educational Multimedia and Hypermedia, V10

Reed, R. (2003). Streaming Technology Improves Student Achievement: Study Shows the Use of Standards-Based Video Content, Powered by a New Internet Technology Application, Increases Student Achievement. Journal article by Ron Reed; THE Journal (Technological Horizons In Education), V30.

Saba, F. (2000). Research in Distance Education: A Status Report. International Review of Research in Open and Distance Learning. V1 (1), ISSN: 1492-3831

