Popular perception is that the process of acquiring a doctoral degree is a lonely journey. But that has not been my experience. To me, it was like a birthing experience, where a woman, delivering her first child is anxious with fear and pain. She is calmed by her family members, who give her confidence, and hold her hand to reassure her that they are all there with her. The support system that helped me ‘deliver’ the thesis was the guidance and encouragement of Prof. Leena Abraham, Prof. N. Jayaram and Dr. Sivakami.

I owe deepest gratitude to Prof. Leena Abraham, my research supervisor, for introducing me to the world of feminisms. Thank you, Ma’am, you to have worked assiduously on my thesis, reading and re-reading drafts to make it sensible. Ma’am, whenever I needed guidance, you have always been there for me, just a knock away. Our hours of academic discussions motivated me to dive deeper into the realms of feminisms. I have learnt a lot from you.

I have deep appreciation for Prof. N. Jayaram and Dr. Sivakami, members of the Doctoral Advisory Committee, for providing guidance, support and constant encouragement through the journey. Prof. N. Jayaram, a mere thank you would be an understatement. Your advice of, ‘if you really want to thank me, do the same for others’, I shall remember it forever. Sir, my learning from you, extends beyond classroom. I am deeply indebted to you for everything that you have done for me. Dr. Sivakami, I take this opportunity in thanking you immensely for your constant emotional support and motivation which meant a lot to me. Your approachable nature and warmth was solace for me throughout. Thank you, Ma’am, for being there for me, always.

I would also like to thank the Indian Council of Social Science Research (ICSSR) for the financial assistance in facilitating the PhD work.
I extend my gratitude to the Dean, Research and Development, Prof. Surinder Jaswal, for her support. I would also like to thank the faculty at the Centre for Research and Methodology - Dr. Anil Sutar, Prof. D. P Singh, Prof. P.C Saxena, Dr. Ravindran and Prof. Rajshree Mathani, for laying the foundations of research in me through a rigorous M.Phil coursework. I would also like to extend my sincere thanks to Dr. Antra Bhatt from Research and Development and Susheela Ma’am, Poornima Ma’am, Anil Sir and Praveen Sir of the Doctoral Students Office at TISS for being a great help.

I would like to extend my gratitude to Prof. Chandra Kant Pandav for all the help that he rendered in facilitating my research.

To Janet Chawla, thank you for your time, valuable suggestions and reading materials that helped me in my Ph.D work.

I would like to thank the library staff at TISS for their support. The library staff at JNU, Ratan Tata library, Department of Women’s Studies at Delhi University, SNDT University, IIM-Ahmedabad and India International Centre, for allowing me to access research material.

I express my heartfelt gratitude to my feminist role-model, my mother, Dr. Meera Kant, who has been my inspiration in pursuing Ph.D. You make me who I am. Thank you for laying a cushioned path in life for me to walk on.

To my father, Dr. Lalit Kant, for providing me the much needed motivation. Your voluntarism in crossing the fence of your professional discipline of medicine in attempting to understand and critique patriarchy with me, has indeed meant a lot.

I would like to thank my grandmothers, Dadi and Nani, for their blessings. To my Daddy (Nana), I know that am showered by your blessings everyday. You were truly missed at every stage of the Ph.D journey.

The phrase, ‘friend-philosopher-guide’ is personified in you, Vibhav (now Dr. Vibhav Singh). You are no less than a sister to me, my alter-ego. You have stood by me like a wall, always guided me through difficult times, helped me grow and widen my area of interest. I was motivated by your academic rigour and sincerity. We have had our ‘wicked sunny’ moments and laughing sessions till the wee hours of the morning. Our late night gossip sessions, ‘galat khayals’, online shopping, and updation of our secret diary! All these moments shall be cherished for a lifetime. Thank you for being there, for and with me.

I would like to thank Rohan Sarma for being extremely supportive. You cheered me up, motivated me and encouraged me everytime I felt lost in the Ph.D journey.

To Dr. Shveta Uppal, thank you for your time and effort.

I would also like to thank Nirmala Momin, hostel in-charge at TISS, for making my stay at TISS memorable, happy and peaceful.

To Parul, thank you for inspiring me to enter the field of feminisms. Our late night brainstorming sessions on feminist discourses shall always be remembered.

A special thank you to my friends, Aashima, Nachiket, Sarah and Nidhi, for always lifting my spirits. To my colony friends, thank you for ensuring that I always had an enjoyable break during my visits. Thank you, Anisa Bhutia, for being there in the last few days of my research journey.

Last, but not the least, I would also like to extend my heartfelt thanks to the public hospital and its faculty members for granting me permission to carry out the research in their field practice area. This endeavour could not have been possible without the support of the participants of the study.
