ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

"I feel it a great pleasure to state that the present work was carried out by me in the Department of Educational Study, Sri Venkateswara College, Tirupati under the able guidance of Sri Dr. B. Somasundaram, Reader, Department of Educational Study, Sri Venkateswara College, Tirupati. Without whose constant encouragement, this work could not have been completed. The author records her deep sense of gratitude to him for his inspiring and constant encouragement throughout the work.

The author is very much indebted to Satyav. Dr. G. Krishna, Lecturer in Statistics, Department of Home Economics, M. V. University, Tirupati and officer - in - charge, M. V. Junior College for her keen interest and critical encouragement for her valuable suggestions and timely help in the progress of the work.

A special note of thanks goes to Dr. S. Aruna Rao, former Executive Officer and Chairman, Board of Trustees Tirumala Tirupati Devasthanams for having stimulated discussions during the course of analysing the data.

The author sincerely expresses her gratitude to Sri L. Prichard, Chief Account Officer, (Retd.), Tirumala Tirupati Devasthanams for providing certain relevant materials during the preliminary stages of this work."
The author is very much thankful to Sri. P. L. N. R. A. V. Rangar, joint Executive Officer, Tirumala Tirupati Devasthanams for providing necessary information with regard to functioning of various temples.

The help rendered by Sri S. Subramanyam and his colleagues in compiler centre, T.T. Devasthanams, is highly appreciated.

The help rendered by Dr. C. V. Ramachary, Lecturer in English (Retd.) S.V. Arts College, Tirupati for the time to time help in the preparation of the manuscript is gratefully acknowledged and I am deeply indebted to him.

The author expresses her gratitude to Sri S. K. A. J. Gangadhara Rao, Lecturer in Statistics, S.V. Arts college, Tirupati for his scholarly assistance in analysing the data.

The author is thankful to Smt. Sarala, Lecturer in Statistics, S.V.W. college, Tirupati for giving suggestions in the statistical analysis.

The author is thankful to Mrs. Owarala K. R. S. and her children, Y. Madhavi, Y. Sekhar and Y. Venkatesh for their affectionate help in the preparation of the present work.

The author's thanks are also due to Dr. C. S. Narayaleshwar, Reader and Head, Department of Commerce, Chaitra college, Tirupati and her colleges Dr. K. Muraswamy and Dr. R. N. R. Swamigal, Smt. V. Sarojini Devi, Smt K.
Saraswathi, and Smt. I. Latha Devi, for extending their cooperation during the course of the present work.

The author expresses her salutations to her parents Smt. M. Swethnam and Dr. K. Rattatvala for the kind support and prayers to her for the progress and success of her work.

A special word of thanks goes to her mother Smt.
Arundhati, and the author is very much indebted to her, for valuable cooperation and enticing inspiration during the progress of her work.

The author expresses her affectionate thanks to her fathers and mothers for their keen, constant and positive encouragement during the course of the present work.

The author expresses her gratitude to the Lyapists
(9th & 10th Lyap Institute III.), Mr. Hasheer and H.Ravi (5th. Computer Centre, Tirupati) for their neat and directive Lyap.

The author expresses her gratitude to the Department of Commerce, G.V.G. Arts College, Tirupati for providing all necessary co-operation during the course of this research.
The author humbly acknowledges to the Almighty for granting the necessary mental and physical strength for the preparation of the present doctoral thesis.