ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The present study is an enlightening endeavour in seeking the existential elements in the select works of Richard Wright. This dissertation sincerely attempts to introduce Richard Wright with his existential background, highlights the definition of the term, ‘existentialism’ traces the historical evolution and explains the existential principles. Two novels, Native Son and The Outsider and Wright’s autobiography Black Boy are taken for analysis.

It gives me a profound joy to record my soulful gratitude as the mantra of the mind from the depth of my heart to my Lord the Almighty for His perpetual showering of Grace in profusion in every walks of my life.

I owe a deep debt of gratitude to my Research Supervisor Dr. A. C. CHANDRASEKARAN, Associate Professor of English, Arignar Anna Govt. Arts College, Attur, for his unstinted guidance without which the contemplation and consummation of this dissertation would have been impossible.

I am immensely pleased to thank Prof. Dr. INDIRA MOHAN, who is the master guide, symbol of simplicity and serenity and a noble heart, for his transforming touch which brought out a perfection of this thesis.

It is a pleasure to thank Ms. V. ANBARASI, Associate Professor and Head Department of English, Government. Arts College, Salem – 7 and Ms. V. KUNDAVI, Associate Professor of English, Government Arts College, Salem – 7, who have landed me in the right soil of Afro American Literature.
I deem it a privilege to express my thankfulness to Mr. G. SORNAMUTHURAJ, Assistant Professor and Head, Department of English, Arignar Anna Govt. Arts College, Attur and to Mr. C. N. ANNADURAI, Assistant Professor, Department of English, Arignar Anna Govt. Arts College, Attur, for their care and concern in every occasion from the registration to the submission of the thesis.

It gives me a supreme joy to acknowledge the love and loyalty to my better half, Ms. J. JASMINE ALEX PRABHA, the caring soul behind all my success, for her co sailing in the short journey of this thesis and the long journey of my life.

I wholeheartedly thank the librarians of Thiruvalluvar Government Arts College, Rasipuram, Arignar Anna Govt. Arts College, Attur, Periyar University, Salem and American Information Centre, Chennai for their lovable care and support in the material collection, which is very useful in the completion of this thesis.

I am so happy to thank PROJECT PARK, Salem, for their remarkable craftsmanship in the printing work and final accomplishment of the thesis.

I would like to think and thank at this ideal moment all the well wishers, friends and noble minds for their praying lips and helping hand in the successful completion of the thesis.

S. ALEXANDER