'If you ever see a turtle on a fence post, you can be sure it did not get there by itself'
(Alex Haley in Roots, 1976)

Many people have generously contributed time, guidance, encouragement, information and assistance to this research and I am indebted to all.

My special gratitude goes to my supervisor, Dr. C. A. Francis for valuable insights into managerial research and for guidance, encouragement, patience and friendship throughout this research.

Dr. Mary Joseph, Director and her team (of very scholarly academics and efficient support staff) at the School of Management Studies (SMS), CUSAT offered me constant support, constructive criticism during the pre-submission seminar and cordial reception every time I stepped into SMS building. I am grateful to each one of them. In particular, my doctoral committee member, Dr. Moli P. Koshy, offered timely advice and help. Dr. Manoj Edward was a real ‘big brother’ having travelled this ‘research road’ before.

My academic and administrative colleagues in the Department of Management Studies, School of Management, Pondicherry University gave me their unfailing support and generous help in sharing my academic workload. My boss, Dr. Basheer Ahmed Khan was a great well-wisher all through this research. Dr. Uma Chandrasekaran played a great role in me ending up at CUSAT for this Ph.D. Her dissertation offered me a challenging benchmark. My students showed me empathy (for being on the same ‘student’ boat) and cheered me. Thanks everybody at DMS-SoM, PU!

I am grateful to my Mauritian friends for giving me a ‘home away from home’. In particular, Dr. Roubina Juwaheer at the University of Mauritius, Mr.Haldar and Mr.Moonegadoo at the Mauritius Tourism Promotion Authority and Mr.Moongroo of the Association of Small and Medium Hotels in Mauritius were very helpful. Mr. Kyong-Fa and his wife, Roubina helped me with the French translation of the questionnaire. Merci beaucoup!

The Directorate of Tourism, Andaman and Nicobar Islands and Mr. Rajesh (World Vision, Port Blair) offered timely assistance in the data collection process. I am thankful to them.

I thank Dr. Om Gupta (Prairie View A&M University, Texas), Conference Chair, Association of Indian Management Scholars (AIMS) Int’l Conference, 2006 and Dr. Prithvi Yadav and Dr. Venkatramana, (Indian Institute of Management, Indore), AIMS Conference Doctoral Track Chairs for their questions, answers and critique during the Doctoral paper competition.

My family as well as my close friends (in particular, Dr. Bushan Sudhakar and Dr-to-be. Hyeong Deug Kim) stood by me, prayed for me and encouraged me at all times. My parents’ expectations were always a huge motivating factor in my life. Oh, how can I forget the role played by PUEU group back in Pondicherry during these five years! Thanks, folks!

My Lord Jesus gave me physical and mental strength to do this research. But for His grace, I would have never reached this far in life. Thank You, Lord!

If I have forgotten to mention anyone here, it must be to do with my middle-age memory and not my grateful heart. Am feeling like the turtle mentioned earlier …

And finally, this research is dedicated to my wife, Delcy and our son, Roshan for their understanding, patience, love and confidence in me. Love you, Dels and Kutty. Now on I will be home early.
