ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

It is my first duty to express deep gratitude to Allah and his Prophet as, I believe, only because of their grace and blessings that I have been able to complete the present thesis. First of all I would like to record my sincere thanks to the AMU authorities, who not only permitted me to take up this study but also provided all the research facilities.

I am indebted to my research supervisor Prof. M.A. Kishore, Coordinator of Human Rights Programme, Department of Political Science, under whose able supervision, untiring guidance and constant encouragement this research project has been completed. Inspite of his extremely busy schedule, he was always available for discussions and guidance. His suggestions have been of immense help for the improvement of the thesis.

I am grateful to Prof. T.A. Nizami, Chairman, Department of Political Science for his advice and help. I shall be failing in my duty if I do not acknowledge the help of the staff members of Maulana Azad Library AMU, Indian Law Institute, Indian Social Institute and the NASDOCC Library of the Indian Council of Social Science Research and NHRC, all in Delhi.

I owe my deepest gratitude to those original thinkers whose ideas I had the privilege to quote.

I also acknowledge my indebtedness to my parents, friends and my other family members individually whose blessings and inspiration have had a great impact on building up of my academic career.

Last but not the least I must thank Mr. Fakimuddin for typing the thesis.
