Contents

Introduction

Chapter I: Force in International Relations

(Heritage of Force Theory; Theories about social order, force and International Relations; Purposes for the Use of Force; The Myth of Obsolescence of Military Force in Contemporary International Relations; Transformation of the nature of Force in International Relations.)

Chapter II: War as an instrument of foreign policy

(Nature and Functions of War; A Deliberate and Planned Act?; Causes, Motives and Issues; Classifications of Wars; The Marxist-Leninist Approach)

Chapter III: Strategy and Strategic Studies

(Determining Factors; Types of Strategy; Broadening of the Concept; Scientific Nature?; As An Intellectual Discipline; Strategic Studies and International Relations; Theory Building; Point-Counterpoint.)

Chapter IV: Nuclear Strategy

(Averting War; Deterrence; Small Nuclear Forces; Superpowers' Nuclear Doctrines; the Soviet Nuclear Strategy)

Chapter V: Arms Race and Arms Control

(The Meaning and Nature of Arms Race; Arms Acquisitions; The Idealism of Disarmament; Management and Limitations of Arms.)

Bibliography