Acknowledgement

All praises to 'The Creator of creations', the most merciful and benevolent who gave me the valiancy to complete the work in hand.

I greatly rejoice to express emphatically, with profound sense of gratitude and highest veneration, my sincere thanks to my teacher and supervisor Prof. M. Murtaza Khan, Department of Political Science, A.M.U., Aligarh for his liberal guidance, sustained interest, sympathetic and inspiring attitude, untiring help and incessant encouragement during the course of this study. His vast knowledge and hold on the subject has helped me immensely in putting forth the thesis in present form. I always found him kind enough to spare his invaluable time lavishly and willingly to discuss and sort out the day-to-day problems and issues of my research. Timeless and exhaustive discussions with him made me aware of other viewpoints and explanations that proved to be invaluable. His penetrating criticism and fruitful suggestions has been an asset in removing the blemishes, which had crept in my work. His association has made this research effort a more enjoyable and rewarding experience for me. In challenging times, his presence has been quite reassuring and has taught me volumes I am and will always remain deeply beholden to Sir. His supervision and guidance will be deeply missed at every step of my life.

I also express my sincere thanks to Dr. Ambrose Pinto (Director, Indian Social Institute, New Delhi), Dr. Asad Yazdani, (Prof. & Head, Department of Public Administration, Osmania University, Hyderabad), Mr. M. Rehman and Ms. Helen Seker (Senior Fellows, National Labour Institute, Noida), for their help and guidance whenever I visited their institutes.

I am also grateful to incharge and staff members of libraries of Aligarh Muslim University, Jawahar Lal Nehru University, Osmania University, Hyderabad University, Calcutta University, Jamia Millia Islamia, Kashmir University, UNICEF, International Labour Organisation, National Social Science Research Documentation Centre, ICSSR (Delhi, Hyderabad, Calcutta), Vidhan Soudha (Banglore), Janan Bharti (Banglore), National Labour Institute (Noida), Indian Social Institute (New Delhi), Indian Law Institute (New Delhi), National Library (Calcutta), etc. for rendering great assistance to me in the collection of the study material.

I also record my indebtedness to various individuals, which included Social activists, Trade Union leaders, NGO patrons, Manufacturers, Factory workers, Child labourers and their parents who cooperated and furnished useful information readily and without any reservations, thereby, making this study a success. Due to constraint of space, it is not possible for me to name each and every person.

I also record my indebtedness to Indian Council of Social Science Research (ICSSR) for providing me study grants for collection of research material in Delhi, Hyderabad and Calcutta. Mrs. Meena Walia (ICSSR, New Delhi) deserves a special mention for her kind cooperation.
My special thanks also go to Mr. Naimuddin Saifi and Mr. Shahid for the neat and clean typing of the thesis and cooperation. Mr. Naimuddin deserves special mention, as he had to type the data of whole thesis again which got erased due to virus in the computer.

I am also obliged to my colleagues and friends for their moral support and joyous company.

I shall be failing in my duty if I do not put on record my deepest sense of gratitude and to Daddy and Mummy for their blessings and monetary support. Bilal didi, Rafi Bhaya, Ajaz Bhaya and Rouf Bhaya also deserve my gratitude for their encouragement, cooperation and help.
