ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I have great pleasure in expressing my profound sense of gratitude to my supervisor, Dr. S. Waheed Akhtar, Professor and Chairman, Department of Philosophy, Aligarh Muslim University, Aligarh, to whose constant guidance and unfailing sympathy this work owes more than I can express in words. He evinced a keen interest at every stage in the preparation of the present thesis and devoted much of his valuable time in guiding me. His affection and solicitude coupled with his vast scholarship have deeply influenced my general approach and understanding of philosophy as well as the main theme of this project. I have greatly benefited from his erudition, constructive suggestions and inspiring guidance. It would not have been possible for me to refer to original texts of Muslim philosophy, Kalām and ḥadīth without his help. His vast knowledge of Islamic literature has proved to be of great value to my research.

I also wish to acknowledge my deepest sense of gratitude to my former supervisor, the late Dr. Muḥammad Anẓārul Ḥaq, whose affection and unceasing guidance inspired me to determine the line of thought pursued in this project.

I must express my sincere thanks to my respected teachers Prof. Jāmā Khwaja, and Dr. M. Rafique, who encouraged me from time to time and gave valuable and constructive suggestions during the preparation of this work.

I am also thankful to all the teachers in the Department of Philosophy, Aligarh Muslim University, Aligarh for their fruitful suggestions and cooperation.

I may be failing in my duty if I do not express my deepest gratitude to my beloved parents. But for their blessings and prayers I could not have achieved anything, not to speak of taking up this research work. I am also thankful to my brothers and sisters whose great affection and love have always been a source of inspiration to me.

I am obliged to the Aligarh Muslim University, Aligarh for granting me Junior Research Fellowship for a period of four years without which I could not have afforded to devote my entire time and energy to complete this project.

I am especially thankful to my younger brother Syed Kazim Hussain Kazmi who encouraged and financed me substantially in the course of the preparation of the present work.

Bashir Batt, Muhammad Ali Jauhar, Qamrul Huda Firidi, Manzoor Hussain Kazmi, Muhammad Afzal Mir, Ashiq Hussain Kazmi, Nazir Hussain Shah, Shaukat Hussain Kazmi, Jannat Hussain Kazmi, Muhammad Jameel, Wali Muhammad and a number of teachers from Jammu and Kashmir State for their encouragement and solicitude.
