First of all, all thanks and gratitude be to "Allah" who always guides us to the right path.

I'm extremely grateful to my supervisor, Professor A.R. Fatih, Chairman of the Department of Linguistics, Aligarh Muslim University for suggesting this topic and for helping me to acquire the confidence to embark upon this work. I owe him more support, ideas and thoughts than can be given due credit here. From inception to conclusion, this study owes so much to him.

I must also acknowledge Prof. Carol Myres Scotton, University of South Carolina, Columbia, U.S.A for providing me with invaluable materials written by her, from which I have benefited greatly.

Considerable thanks and gratitude are due to Prof. Qassim Mohammad Buraih, Rector of Hodeidah university, and my elder brother, Dr. Hamoud Mohammed Qadha, Dean of Faculty of Education, Zabid for providing me with the opportunity to pursue my higher studies. A word of thank also goes to Dr. Nabil Awadh Farae, Chairman of the English department, Faculty of Education, Zabid for his support and encouragement during this long voyage of discovery.

I would also like to express my gratitude to each and every member of the teaching and non-teaching staff of the linguistics department, Aligarh Muslim University for extending endless helps and support throughout the different phases of this study. A special thank, however, goes to Mr. Najibulhasan, Seminar Library incharge for his great cooperation in issuing and sometimes suggesting useful books.

I am also thankful to Dr. Taha Ahmed Hasan, Dr. Mohammad Masroor, Dr. Hasan Ja'ashan, Dr. Mustafa Thabet, Dr. Mohammad Alhusami, Dr. Sameer Alhummadi, Dr. Tawfique Alsharabi and Mr. Jamal Alhumaidi, for helping me in the process of collecting materials related to the study. A word of thank is also due to Dr. Jaseem Baig and Mr. Waseem Ahmad who typed this work.

Finally, In this work I owe more than can sometimes be imagined or adequately recompensed to my wife, Umm Firas, and to my children, Firas and Mohammed, who have created an excellent family atmosphere and have been extraordinarily helpful and patient throughout the time it has taken to write it.
