ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

In the name of Allah the most merciful and beneficent who showed me the path of righteousness and blessed me with the strength to mark upon the task.

For the unprecedented efforts, encouragement and for the fine precision in inculcating the real and impartial view over such a topic of my thesis, I express my profound gratitude to my supervisor, Prof. Saleem Akhtar, Department of Law, Aligarh Muslim University, Aligarh. I being deeply moved by the kind gesture and excellent guidance, find my words falling short of the real praise of my supervisor which enabled me to carry out my course of study. His gentleness and inspiring attitude are worthy to be acknowledge in emphatic words of praise. I always found him kind enough to spare his valuable time lavishly and willingly whenever needed and even during his academic tours. His expert comments and suggestions made this work meaningful. I consider myself lucky to have worked under his supervision. My respect, admirations and thankfulness for him are countless.
