ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

At the outset I would like to express my gratitude to the Vice-Chancellor for permitting me to supplicate Ph D thesis as a teacher candidate for the award of Ph D degree and granting leave that enabled me to complete this exhaustive research work.

I am immensely grateful to Prof A K Jafri, Dean, Faculty of life sciences and Prof Saleemuddin, former Dean for their keen interest and valuable help.

I am extremely thankful to Prof Amina Kishore, Principal, Women’s College who has constantly encouraged me and extended all possible support.

I am thankful to Prof Kumud Khanna, Director, Institute of Home Economics, New Delhi for kindling interest in me in the subject and inspiring me to undertake research on this vital aspect of enquiry.

I am indebted to Dr Zulfia Khan, Chairman, Department of Preventive and Community Medicine for the technical guidance, training and support that I received from her in formulating and administrating clinical observations, biochemical tests and investigations.

My sincere gratitude to Dr Mohd Yaqub Khan, Reader, Department of Statistics and Dr Rafeequllah Khan, Lecturer, Department of Statistics for their help in sample designing and in resolving computer and manual statistical hiccups.

I am also highly thankful to Dr Anis Ahmad, Reader and Dr Sartaj Tabassum, Lecturer, Department of Chemistry for facilitating the water analysis to detect and measure the iodine content for this study.

I am extremely grateful to all the Principals and teachers of selected schools, who cooperated and assisted me in carrying out the research study. Equally I am thankful to all the respondents for their full support and cooperation.

My sincere thanks to Mr Mohd Ashfaque, Senior Programme Officer, Computer Centre for his invaluable help in computer programming and data processing.
I am thankful to my friends and colleagues Mrs. Elizabeth Thomas, Dr. Farzana Alim, Mrs. Hina Bijli, Ms. Saba Khan, and Ms. Noor Saba for their magnanimous cooperation and support.

I wish to offer my acknowledgement to Mr. Abdul Ali and Mr. Mohd. Riaz Khan for their timely help in typing out this research work and to one and all who have made their contribution towards the successful completion of this research study.

I also wish to express my thanks to the members of my family for their constant encouragement, patience and understanding that was readily forthcoming throughout the extended period of the study.
