The present thesis is being submitted to fulfil the requirements of the Ph.D. Degree in Geography at the Aligarh Muslim University, Aligarh. It deals with the types and patterns of Rural Settlements in the Ganga-Yamuna Doab.

The writing of this project would not have been possible without the help generously extended to me from many quarters. In the first place I wish to express my sincere thanks and deep sense of gratitude to Dr. Mohammad Shafi, Professor and Chairman, Department of Geography, Aligarh Muslim University, Aligarh, for his scholarly guidance, kind words and fatherly affection and treatment like a traditional Indian teacher (guru). He has always been an inexhaustible source of inspiration and guidance to me. He has supervised the work at every stage and has given valuable suggestions.

Grateful thanks are also due to all the members of the staff particularly to Late Prof. A. Anas, Prof. S. A. Hafizullah, Prof. Mehdi Reza, Prof. N. F. Siddiqui, Prof. Abdul Aziz, Dr. Farooq Siddiqui and Dr. K. Z. Amani of the Department of Geography, Aligarh Muslim University, Aligarh who always offered their help unhesitatingly.

I am also grateful to the Librarians of the Geography Seminar Library and the Maulana Azad Library of the Aligarh Muslim University, Aligarh.

I owe my indebtedness to Prof. Aijazuddin Ahmad, Chairman Centre for Regional Development, Jawahar Lal Nehru University,
New Delhi who always extended his helping hand in the hour of need.

I would also like to place my thanks to Dr. N.K. Agnihotri, Department of Geography, M.M.H. College, Ghaziabad for his brotherly affection and help which helped in improving the quality of the text.

In fact I am deeply indebted to the residents of village Kata Pathar (Dehra Dun), Bahadurpur (Meerut), Saidpur (Ghaziabad), Baidpura (Ghaziabad), Jaun Sawana (Ghaziabad), Maheshpur (Etah), and Purwa Sutan (Kanpur) without whose help no field work could have been possible.

I would also acknowledge the help extended to me by Messrs. O. C. Garg, and V. K. Goel for providing me the relevant irrigation data.

I am highly indebted to my revered father late Sri Chiranjii Lal who never failed to help me in every possible way.

I also acknowledge the help and sincere efforts made by my son Mr. Manoj Kumar during the field work.

I am also thankful to Mr. S.C. Jain for typing the manuscript.

In the end I would like to acknowledge all those who worked in this field and provided relevant material for the purpose.

Finally I take this opportunity to extend my hearty thanks to my wife Mrs. Raj Bala Gupta for her moral support, patience, and inspiration. In fact her wholehearted co-operation and encouragement have always helped me to complete the work.

(JAGDISH PRASAD GUPTA)