The author had a desire to start research work soon after the post-graduation. But due to some personal difficulties, this could not be done. It became possible after the encouragement and advice given by Professor Mohammad Anas.

During this work a number of field trips had to be made to collect the information. The author had vivid experiences in the course of these trips. Some persons were very generous and co-operative while quite a few did not like to easily part with the information required of them. But on the whole the help of all of them in collecting the statistical information has enabled the author to complete this work, and he sincerely thanks them all.

The author is very much grateful to Professor Mohammad Anas, who by his valuable guidance has directed him at every stage and at every hour, even when he was extremely busy. Without this it was not possible to complete the work.
The writer is grateful to Professor M. Shafl, Head of the Department of Geography, who has allowed the writer to avail of freely the Library and Seminar facilities, and given him guidance at every hour of need.
