I really feel great pleasure to express my deep sense of gratitude to my esteemed PhD supervisor Prof. Ashok Mittal, Chairman, Department of Economics, AMU, Aligarh. His learned, gracious and scholarly guidance coupled with genuine and constructive criticisms during the course of research proved instrumental and enabled me to complete this research thesis. In fact, his untiring interest and ever-willing help and meticulous & talented guidance have been much greater than what I deserve. I am indeed thankful to him that, despite his preoccupations and busy schedule, he always shared time for my work and constantly stimulated my will power.

It is profound pleasure to express my sincere and deepest sense of gratitude and indebtedness to my co-supervisor Dr. Gautam Naresh, Senior Economist, National Institute of Public Finance and Policy, New Delhi, for his valuable guidance, creative criticism and keen interest along with untiring labour throughout the work. His encouragement and personal attention during the research provided me spirit to complete this work.

I am deeply indebted to Prof. MP Singh, Professor, Department of History, AMU, Aligarh and Dr. G.S Yadav, Professor, CR College, Hissar for going through the manuscript of the thesis. I shall remain grateful to them.

Two persons whom I cannot forget to acknowledge are Ms. Jyotsna Mohan and Mr. Arun Chitkara, they are no less than sister and brother to me. Their advice and guidance I shall cherish throughout my life. They were very caring and sympathizing ever since my academic days. My friends Ms Kiran, Amita, Gita, Darshi and Sushma have all been a constant source of encouragement and help in my endeavor and hence I am thankful to all of them.

Mr. Rahul Kumar Singh, my brother and his wife Ms Varsha Singh, my brother-in-law Mr Rahul Raghav and my sister-in-law Dr Kamayani Singh constantly let me feel that they are with me and they deserve my hearty thanks and wishes.

My father, Prof. RP Singh, mother Ms Kusum Singh and grandmother Ms Sarvati Devi always wished to see my work completed. They throughout remained source of inspiration. In fact, it was their wish, which I am trying to fulfill. For my will power and working aptitude, I am indebted to my parents. Though inept, I would like to express my hearty gratitude to my father-in-law Mr. Jagbir Singh and mother-in-law Ms Arti Singh and other family members, during this period not only they assisted me financially but also set me free of most of my family responsibilities though it was difficult. Of course, all of them would be the happiest to see the fruits of their sacrifice.

Words alone are not adequate to translate my thanks to my husband Mr. Ajay Raghava, who has always helped me in releasing me of mental tension and often disappointing moments by his very consoling words, advice and moral support till the last word that I wrote in the present work. Not only this, he also tried to set me free of responsibilities and put up with my absence, time and again on account of this work with affectionate understanding. I am also grateful to him for patiently going through the manuscript of the thesis.

I acknowledge the untiring efforts and contribution put up by Mr. Sanjiv Kumar, CPCB, Delhi, in formatting the thesis and bringing it into the present form. For me it is a pleasure to acknowledge the encouragement, advice and multifarious cooperation given by my colleague Ms Rashmi Chaudhary.

The much needed, but vastly scattered literature on the subject could become available to me due to the rich libraries of National Institute of Public Finance and Policy, New Delhi, Indian Institute of Public Administration, New Delhi and Indian Statistical Institute, New Delhi, I am thankful to the cooperation and help provided to me by the staff and keepers of these libraries.

Though care has been taken, as far as possible, to make the presentation error-free the dictum goes, commit at least one mistake so that the reader may feel superior. Surely, I cannot deny the feeling of superiority to my readers.
