A very special thanks goes to Mr. Dharamvir Singh, my maternal uncle, without whose motivation and encouragement I would not have considered a career in science. He is the one who truly made a difference in my life. He provided me with direction, technical support and became more of a mentor and friend, than an uncle. It was through his, persistence, understanding and kindness that I completed my postgraduate and was encouraged to apply for Ph.D. I doubt that I will ever be able to convey my appreciation fully, but I owe him my eternal gratitude.

My heartfelt gratitude to my parents, brothers, sisters, my father in-law, my mother in-law and brother in-laws and their families for their much needed support, patience, understanding and encouragement in every possible way.

And also my indebtedness towards my wife Seema and my little daughter, Yashvi, they have given me more than I can say. Their endless love, priceless, perpetual, indispensable help, support and everything made all this possible.

Above and beyond all, I bow my head before 'God', without whose blessing my present thesis would not have existed and thanks for giving me patience and strength to overcome the difficulties, which crossed my way in the accomplishment of this endeavor and made me able to make my parents own dream come true.
