References

(FMR-1) containing a CGG repeat coincident with a breakpoint cluster region exhibiting length variation in fragile X syndrome. 1991, Cell; 65: 905-914.

34. Zielonka D, de Mezer M, Niezgoda A, Reperowicz K, Krzyzosiak W, Kozubski W. Clinical picture of patients with Huntington's disease in relation to the number of trinucleotide CAG repeats in IT-15 gene.

43. McGue M and Gottesman II: A single dominant gene cannot account for the transmission of schizophrenia. 1989, Arch Gen Psychiatry; 46: 478-480.

trinucleotide CAG repeat in spinocerebellar ataxia type 1. 1993, Nature Genet; 4: 221-226.

175. Mortensen PB, Pedersen CB, Westergaard T, Wohlfahrt T, Ewald H, Mors O, Andersen PK and Melbye M. Effects of family history, place and

289. Michelato A, Bonvicini C, Ventriglia M, Scassellati C, Randazzo R, Bignotti S, Beneduce R, Riva MA, Gennarelli M: 3’ UTR (AGG)n repeat of

