Contents

Acknowledgements

I. Introduction

II. Chapter I: Mughal perception of European geography 8

III. Chapter II: Mughal perception of European political system 27

IV. Chapter III: (i) Mughal views on Science and rationalism 51
(ii) Mughal response to European technology and nature of response 64

V. Chapter IV: Mughal perception of Christianity 108

Plates:

Fig. i Rudolfo Acqaviva and another Jesuit debating with Muslim Divines before Akbar 135
Fig. ii. Copy of European Engravings 136
Fig. iii. Folio from the Gulshan Album showing European object 137
Fig. iv. The Nativity of the Christ 138
Fig. v. The Nativity of Christ 139
Fig. vi. The Virgin and Child by Kesu 140
Fig. vii. The Martyrdom of St. Cecilia 141
Fig. viii. Tobias' Angel 142
Fig. ix. Virgin and Angel 142
Fig. x. Jahangir Holding the Picture of Madonna 143

V. Chapter V: The European merchant as the ‘other’ of Indian merchant 144

VI. Chapter VI: European piracy and maritime supremacy in Mughal perception 163

VII. Chapter VII: Fiscal policy of Mughals towards the European merchants 200

VIII. Conclusion 236

Bibliography 242