Chapter 1 INTRODUCTION

1.1 Statement of the Problem
1.2 Concept and Definition
1.3 Aims and Objectives
1.4 Data Sources
1.5 Research Methodology and Cartographic Techniques
1.6 Hypotheses to be Tested
1.7 Organization of the study
1.8 Nature and Extent of the Study Area
1.9 A Brief Review of Work Done

Chapter 2 PHYSICAL CHARACTERISTICS OF THE REGION

2.1 Structure and Relief
2.2 Physical Divisions
2.3 Drainage System
2.4 General Climatic Conditions
2.5 Soils

Chapter-3 TEMPORAL PATTERNS OF LANDUSE CHANGE: A MICRO LEVEL ANALYSIS

3.1 Different Catagories of Land use Classification
3.2 Statistical Illustration of Landuse
3.3 Cropping Pattern–Season wise
3.4 Changing Cropping Pattern: Cropwise

Chapter 4 DRIVING FORCES RESPONSIBLE FOR LANDUSE CHANGE

4.1 Environmental, Infrastructural and Technological Drives of Landuse
4.2 Social, Institutional and Organizational Drives
4.3 Impact of Driving Forces on Landuse Pattern: A Block Level Analysis 209-220

Chapter-5 SAMPLED VILLAGES: A SUB-MICRO LEVEL ANALYSIS OF LAND USE CHANGE 221-259
5.1 Criteria for Selection of Villages for Primary Survey 221-226
5.2 Villages from the blocks of Very Low Cropping Intensity Region 226-229
5.3 Villages from the blocks of Low Cropping Intensity Region 229-232
5.4 Villages from the blocks of Medium Cropping Intensity Region 232-239
5.5 Villages from the blocks of High Cropping Intensity Region 239-250
5.6 Villages from the blocks of Very High Cropping Intensity Region 250-253
5.7 Village wise Analysis of Changing Pattern of Landuse 253-259

Chapter-6 CONCLUSION AND POLICY IMPLICATIONS 260-272
Bibliography 273-287
Glossary 288-290
